Record-Breaking Sextuplets Provide Frisky Handful For Haldeman Family

These six frisky kids provide a handful of energy for Bonnie Haldeman, son Luke, 17, and daughter Hannah, 15. The Haldemans present their sextuplets, three females and three males born April 27 to one of their Nubian goat nannies. According to the Haldemans, animal specialists at Penn State and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture have no record of a goat giving birth to six kids. Luke noticed the nanny was having trouble after the first two were born. Dr. George Keck, retired veterinarian, helped deliver the remaining four. For the first few days, the runt of the litter walked on its knuckles, but after round-the-clock bottle feedings by the Haldemans, all the kids are frisky and healthy. The nanny is doing fine also, taking the record-breaking family in stride. Of course she had practice three years ago when she gave birth to quadruplets. The Haldemans have five nannies on their Campbelltown farm. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

National Farm Groups Create Unified Policy Statements

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A lengthy position paper calling for changes in national farm policies represents a consensus of 29 of the United States' farm and rural groups, according to a news release.

Issued April 27 by the National Farmers Union (NFU), the group that spearheaded what it is calling a "National Agricultural Summit," the leadership of 29 of the nation's farm organizations last week arrived at a consensus on policies it wants the nation's political leaders to adopt.

The 29 organizations listed included the NFU, the National Farmers Organization, the American Farm Bureau Federation, National Grange, and a number of commodity producer organizations — ranging from producers of beef and milk to tobacco, rice, peanuts and sugarbeets.

According to NFU, immediately following the "summit" held in St. Louis, "The leadership of 29 of the nation's farm organizations ... forged a broad consensus on a number of critical issues facing

The Pennsylvania Young Farmers Ag Spokesperson of the Year, Shirley Krall, is an avid believer that farms serve as the best source for educating the non-farming community. Her efforts at the county level pushed her on to state competition where whe was selected the state winner to represent Pennsylvania at the 1999 National Young Farmer Educational Institute Convention to be held in Hershey in December. Turn to page B2 and B10 to read how Shirley, husband Tom, and four children spread agriculture facts to the people who don't know much about farming. In addition, we have the Pennsylvania Young Farmer newsletter including individual chapter news in this issue starting on page A34 and continuing on page C4-5. Chambersburg Dairyman's Manure Management Dream Slowly Becomes Reality

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — To Cliff Hawbaker, it's neither impossible — nor expensive — to turn manure management dreams into reality.

On his 243-acre Hamilton Heights Dairy Farm near Chambersburg, he's enacted what dairymen only dream about — develop an inexpensive system that mirrors the multimillion dollar municipal waste treatment facilities used by boroughs and townships.

A project begun last fall to test his dream — taking manure wastes, obtaining treated, fluid results, and using the liquid to irrigate pasture systems — is coming to fruition. This summer, an electrical pump system, underground lines, and wide-area broadcast spreaders will be installed on the dairy.

For many farmers that are surrounded by development, Hawbaker may have found a practical, inexpensive solution to odor and nutrient problems.

"I personally do not mind the smell of a cow, a pig, or a chicken," he said during an interview this week at the farm. "But the animal waste odors have to go. That is something we in agriculture have to deal with."

Hawbaker's 400-head registered and grade Holstein dairy is surrounded by development — a golf course to the west, a large elementary school to the south, a housing development to the east, and a main public road north of the farm.

"Because of my neighbors — and I'm a neighbor to somebody as well — we have to live with that," he said. "My neighbors could care less whether I put one ton of animal waste per acre or 10 tons or 30 tons — as long as they don't smell it when they schedule their after-

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY

Many Western Corn Belt rivers out of the banks, continued rains and flooding but grain and soybean prices a little lower, today. Wheat steady to 3 cents lower. Corn steady to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 1 to 2 cents lower. Soybeans 1 to 3 cents lower. Grain farmers are hoping for a couple of weeks of sunshine and warm weather. Corn planting getting further behind but not panic time yet. Many river bottoms underwater and it will be a few days before the big machines can move across the ground. Export announcements on the short order so far this week. CCC purchases are slow to come about. There are bountiful supplies out there in stock for them to bid on.

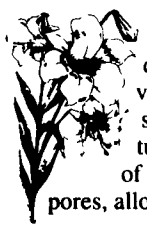
The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

MAY 10-16, 1999

THREE CHILLY SAINTS, MAY 11, 12, 13.

MAY FLOWERS

If spring showers bring you May flowers in abundance, you may benefit from these tips on the care and keeping of cut flowers. Go out to the garden in the early morning or late afternoon hours for the freshest blooms, and remember to take a sharp knife or shears to cut the stems. Freesias like a scant quarter teaspoon of alcohol in a pint of water. Give daffodils and narcissus only an inch of very cold water. For irises, cherry blossoms, forget-me-nots, lilies of the valley, tulips, roses, and primroses, a quick dip of the stems in boiling water will open the pores, allowing the flowers to absorb more water.



Mid-May's eldest child, The coming musk-rose . . .

– John Keats

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Crush or slit woody flower stems before placing them into a vase.

LAMB STEW

3 pounds boneless lamb shoulder, cut into cubes
6 tablespoons olive oil
4 large cloves garlic, minced
1-1/2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh rosemary
3 tomatoes, seeded and chopped
1 cup dry white wine or chicken stock
salt and pepper, to taste

In a heavy, ovenproof casserole, brown the lamb in the oil. Remove the lamb and set aside. Pour off the excess fat, leaving just enough to sauté the garlic. When garlic is golden, add rosemary and tomatoes. Add wine (or stock) and simmer for about 5 minutes. Return lamb to pot and season with salt and pepper. Bake at 325° F for about 1½ hours.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Cold weather always falls on May 11,12, and 13.

St. Pancras Day (May 12) never passes without frost.

A red Sun has water in his eye.

When the Sun sets unhappy, the morning will be angry with storms.

In the middle of May comes the tail of winter.

OPINION

Two Actions To Solve The Problem

Farmers, ranchers, and small landowners across the country are restricted from using their property in ways that it has traditionally been used because their land is the home of, or alleged home of, "endangered species". In addition, land that COULD someday be habitat for a listed species that is not presently there, also can fall under these restrictions.

Farmers and ranchers are more than willing to help preserve habitat for endangered species, so long as private landowners are treated no differently than federal agencies when it comes to compensation for losses. This is the message Farm Bureau brought to lawmakers at recent hearings before a House Resources Committee on legislation that would ensure fair treatment for private property owners who are adversely affected by enforcement of the Endangered Species Act.

Carl Loop, Farm Bureau vice president told lawmakers that as stewards of the land, farmers and ranchers understand and appreciate the need for biodiversity and the protection of plant and animal species. But too often they are made to bear the entire cost for protecting listed species that occur on their property.

The Fifth Amendment requires that when private property is taken for public purposes, costs must be borne by the public through just compensation to the private landowner. At present, countless instances can be given where the federal government restricted the use of land while giving little or no regard to the loss of use or value of property. That's why it is so important that the constitutional guarantees of just compensation be enforced. This becomes even more apparent when you realize that 78 percent of listed species are found on privately owned land, and more than 34 percent of listed species are found exclusively on privately owned land.

We believe two actions need to be taken in this matter. We need to have the essence of the Landowners Equal Treatment Act incorporated into public policy, and we need to reduce the endangered species list to those species that are really endangered.

Editor,

I am enclosing an article from our local Sunday edition wich disturbs me greatly.

I have long been aware of a ban in Europe of U.S. beef imports because of our extensive use of BGH. However, the reactions proposed disturb me greatly. I don't believe in the paradigm that the consumer must accept what the manufacturer or producer chooses to put on the market. Conversely, the market should decide what is produced.

I am a small beef grower. I refuse to use any form of implants or hormones because I want the beef I eat to be free of these additives. Rarely, do I use antibiotics since I keep my cattle healthy in an environment conducive to good animal health.

I'm certain that in Lancaster County as well as in the Eastern United States, there are many beef producers who do the same or would, if they had a ready market, perhaps with a slight bonus or an incentive.

Therefore, instead of a trade war which will hurt many innocents as the article implies, let us start a new marketing program by providing what the market demands instead of demanding that the market accept what we want to provide. It can be done!

Now Is The Time

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Have Effective Weed Control

Effective weed control is a key component of profitable crop production, according to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent The following five steps are basic considerations for developing an effective weed control program

First, match the control to the weed problems You need to know your weeds and chemicals

Second, apply pre-emergence herbicides as soon after the last tillage operation as possible so no weeds will germinate

Third, lightly incorporate herbicides with a rotary hoe if no rain occurs within a week to ten days after application unless prohibited by the label

Fourth, take advantage of cultivation when escape weeds are a problem

Fifth, develop a realistic control goal based on the economic impact of the weeds and not the social concerns of the neighborhood

To Provide Ample Water

Water is as essential to good nutrition as any solid feed. According to Chester Hughes, Lancaster County Extension Livestock Agent, water should be fresh, clean and available to the horse at all times Horses may be watered before, after or during feeding, but should not be watered if they are overheated Normally, a mature horse drinks 10 to 12 gallons of water a day When the temperature is high or during work periods, the amount consumed is considerably greater Some authorities state that a horse may produce about 10 gallons of saliva per day Saliva starts the digestive process Ample water is necessary for good digestion In addition, water cools the horse by carrying excess body heat In cool weather it assists in conserving heat and helps maintain body temperature Water is also the major component of blood and carries nutrients to all parts of the body

To Improve Corn Yields

Jeff Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County Adult Farmer Program, reported the results of a 4 year study showed corn yield difference based on planting depth The study conducted at Hershey by Agway agronomist Roy Aber showed corn planted 1/2 inch deep yield around 120 bushels per acre

While corn planted between 1 and 1/2 to 2 and 1/2 inches deep yielded 160 bushels per acre Everything else was the same variety, population, planting date, fertilizer, herbicides, etc That is a 40 bushel yield difference Thus, it pays big dividends to take the time to adjust and check planter depth

Robert Anderson, Lancaster County Extension Agronomy Agent, recommends you should take time to get off the tractor seat to check on a regular basis what the corn planter is doing Planting depth is also important if you are using Prowl as part of your herbicide program

Also, count the number of seeds being dropped in a given distance Plant population is the most important factor in setting yields Optimum yield is produced at plant populations between 28,000 and 32,000 plants per acre The more uniform the spacing, the greater the yield will be So check also for uniformity of drop

Feather Prof's Footnote "The sins of planting will haunt you all season "

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

YOUR HOUR OF GLORY
May 9, 1998

Background Scripture:
John 13:1-35
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 25:31-40

In his own words, Jesus proclaimed this as his hour of glory: "Now is the Son of man glorified, and in him God is glorified" (John 13:31). This is the moment of a lifetime, the culmination of his ministry, the pinnacle of all that for which he had striven.

But of what did this hour of flory consist?

There were two incidents this night, but none of us would think them very glorious. First, "Jesus . . . rose from supper, laid aside his garments and girded himself with a towel. Then he poured water into a basin, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel with which he was girded" (4,5). In his hour of glory, Jesus humbled himself. Peter protested forcefully: "You shall never wash my feet." We can understand what he was feeling: this man he believed to be the Christ should not condescend to do such a menial, degrading tusk as this. Peter felt unworthy — as we would, too.

HUMBLE SERVICE

Of course, being "worthy" had nothing to do with it. Jesus was performing this act out of grace, the same kind of grace which God bestows upon us despite our unworthiness. In the realm of worldly values, underlings perform lowly tasks for their overlords because they are compelled by force or circumstances. In the kingdom of God, both coming and already arrived, the follower of Christ performs works of humble service, not because he has no choice, but because of grace.

Jesus didn't wash the feet of his disciples because he momentarily felt inferior to them. John tells us that he did this, "knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going to God. . ." (3) Any questions he may have ever had about his role, relationship to the Father and mission had been satisfactorily answered. Humble service could not make him inferior, nor, when we know who we really are, us either.

Peter, who always seemed to leap from one extreme to another, says: "Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head!" He didn't realize that the washing of the disciples' feet wasn't a quanitative measuer, but as qualitative one. They would not be more blessed if Jesus washed more than their feet. The blessing was in what this simple act was saying to them. "If I then, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet. For I have given you an example, that you also should do as I have done to you" (14,15).

BETRAYAL!

The second incident seems even less glorious. "Truly, truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me" (21). Can you imagine how this knowledge made Jesus feel?

Unless you have ever been betrayed yourself, you cannot know how tormenting this must have been. This was not betrayal by a stranger or a mere fellow worker. John tells us that Jesus "loved his own who were in the world." John doesn't say, "Except Judas Iscariot."

Nor does Jesus condemn or berate Judas before the disciples. Instead he says simply, "What you are going to do, do quickly." If this is what Judas was going to do, let's get it over with. The sorrow of Jesus is glimpsed through these words.

The other disciples did not seem to realize what was going on. "Some thought that because Judas had the money box, Jesus was telling him, "Buy what we need for the feast; or that he should give something to the poor" (29). So, Judas left Jesus and his disciples in order to betray the man he called "Lord" and "Teacher." As soon as Judas has gone, Jesus says, "Now is the Son of man glorified!" It was his hour of glory because what he possessed could not be taken away by treachery or even death on a cross.

And he could still say: "A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another; even as I have loved you, that you also love one another. By this all men will know that you are my disciples." That is what will define your hour of glory, too.

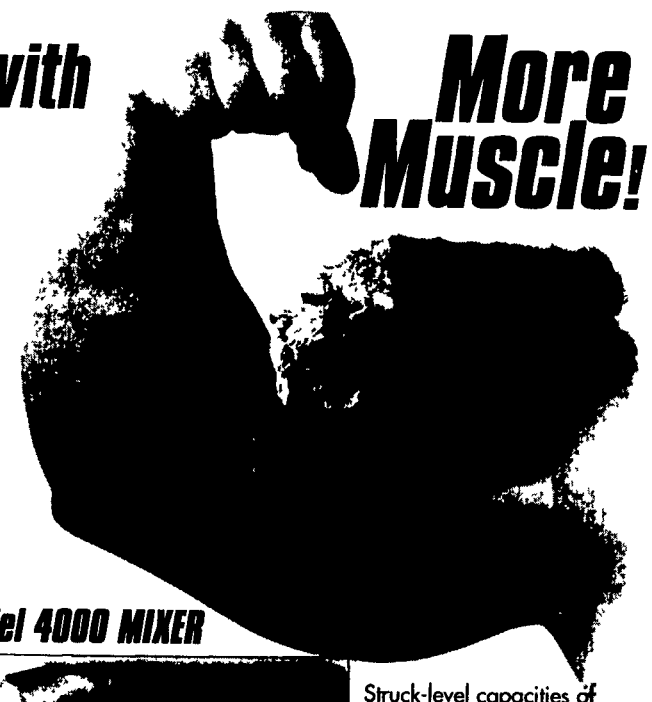
The Mixer with More Muscle!

Mix square bales of hay faster with new features.



Model 4000 MIXER

▲ New tub design plus full-length breaker bar improves mixing with less power so you can feed more hay. A 3/8-inch bottom pan adds extra service life. Welds are strong and tolerances precise for stronger side walls. You get more sturdiness and durability in a new Model 4000 Mixer. New design of transition area in lower auger improves feed flow and reduces torque.

▲ New design of discharge door frame allows a more-complete mix of ration. Choose from belt or auger discharges. Choose various discharge lengths. Increase operator convenience and reduce feeding time with optional hydraulic height control of discharge.

▲ Improved drive train provides reliable performance. A shear bolt helps protect the planetary and lower-auger roller chain and sprockets

Ask for a demonstration!

Struck-level capacities of 205, 305 and 380 cubic feet. Optional side extensions provide struck-level capacities of 232, 343 and 428 cubic feet.

For really tough hay, add knives made from 1/4-inch Quadra-Shark™ steel. The through-hardened knives feature scalloped cutting edges for reduced torque.

We'd Like To Introduce Ourselves.

We're Northwest Savings Bank – Northwest for short – and we offer CD's, savings accounts, mortgages, checking accounts, home equity loans and all the services you expect from a bank (and good ones at that). With over 80 offices in Pennsylvania, including four here in Lancaster County with more to come, we offer all the convenience you're after as well. However, what we're really defined by are the small-town values that we grew up with. Where a handshake means something, neighbors help one another, and a hard day's work is something to be proud of. Enough about us though. We'd like to get to know you better. Visit us when we open our new offices on May 20th in Elizabethtown and New Holland.

National Farm Groups Creat

family farm agriculture, including the farm safety net, risk management, industry concentration and trade."

"We have forged a strong consensus from a very diverse group of organizations that will better allow us to speak with a common voice before Congress and the (Clinton) administration," stated Leland Swanson, NFU president, in the news release.

"We are extremely pleased with the level of unity shown here and the effort by all of the organizations involved to work together on behalf of family farmers and ranchers."

According to the news release, "Summit participants ratified a common set of 'Principals of Agreement' in the four issue areas as well as a joint statement on the gathering and its objectives."

Those who attended the conference did not sign an agreement or otherwise document their approval, however, according to NFU press spokesperson Erika Hovland, because of the strength of the consensus, there seemed to be no need to create such a signatory document of agreement.

Those who served as "facilitators" for the event included former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, former governor of North Dakota George Sinner, Iowa State University professor Neal Harl, and Auburn University professor Robert Taylor.

Those groups represented by participants were, in alphabetical order, the Alabama Farmers Federation, American Agriculture Movement, American Corn Growers Association, American Farm Bureau Federation, American Sheep Industry Association, American Soybean Association, American Sugarbeet Growers Association, Burley and Dark Leaf Tobacco Association, Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, Florida Sugar Cane League, Georgia Peanut Commission, National Association of Wheat Growers, National Barley Growers Association, National Catholic Rural Life, National Cattlemen's Beef Association, National Corn Growers Association, National Cotton Council, National Family Farm Coalition, National Farmers Organization, National Farmers Union, National Grain Sorghum Producers Association, National Grange, National Milk Producers Federation, National Peanut Growers Group, National Pork Producers Council, National Sunflower Association, Organization for Competitive Markets, USA Rice Federation, and Women Involved in Farm Economics.

In addition to a list of policies and positions, representatives of the 29 associations also agreed to a preamble statement, according to the news release.

National Agricultural Summit

PREAMBLE

Representatives of 29 of the nation's farm and commodity organizations met today (April 27) to seek common ground to address the serious economic conditions now facing America's farmers and ranchers.

The goal of the summit was to develop short and long term common principles of agreement in critical areas for U.S. agriculture, including the farm safety net, risk management, industry concentration, and international trade.

The current economic environment for U.S. agriculture is extremely volatile, and prospects for improvement highly uncertain. Financial problems in Asia, Russia and South America in the last two years have triggered an $11 billion decline in foreign demand for U.S. food and fiber.

The world's agricultural producers have responded to falling prices by maximizing production, pushing prices and farm income to historic lows.

Last year, our income protection and crop insurance programs proved unable to offset rising farm losses, requiring an additional $5.9 billion in emergency economic and crop disaster assistance. The outlook for low prices and farm income in 1999 is at least as critical.

During the same period, trends in U.S. agribusiness and in domestic and international trade policies have increased concerns about the competitiveness of U.S. agriculture in the 21st century.

Growing concentration of ownership in basic industries — in crop and livestock merchandizing and processing, and in farm inputs, such as seed, technology, and crop protection products — is increasingly restricting producer options, and threatens to reduce market opportunities and raise production costs.

Unilateral economic sanctions prohibiting agricultural sales and humanitarian assistance to key markets for reasons of foreign policy continue to benefit our foreign competitors.

Participants at the national agricultural summit discussed these issues in four plenary sessions, followed by a closing session to determine principles of agreement.

Our intention is to communicate our concerns, including policy recommendations on which we have reached consensus, to Congress and the Administration to assist their efforts to address the economic crisis in American agriculture.

Positions on which agreement has been reached follow:

SAFETY NET

1. To address the numerous challenges America's farmers and ranchers face, we urge Congress to increase the agriculture budget allocation and appropriations by such sums necessary.

2. The marketing loan is an essential component of the safety net for United States' grain, oilseed, and cotton producers. The program could be strengthened by eliminating local and regional inequities in loan program operation.

3. Fully fund 1998 disaster assistance programs and provide for timely payments.

4. We support full restoration of funding for cotton's Step 2 Program for the remainder of the FAIR act.

5. We support immediate congressional action to pass the fiscal 1999 emergency supplemental appropriations bill to provide additional needed funding for Farm Service Agency's (FSA) guaranteed loan program.

6. We support a temporary freeze on further reductions in field staff of the county FSA offices.

7. We support the continuation of federal market order system. We oppose the reductions in dairy farmer income as evidenced by the March 1999 Market Order Reform plan announcement.

8. The Federal Tobacco Program has been successful since 1941 in keeping tobacco farmers profitable. This program should continue to serve as an arms length transaction to protect the tobacco farmer from the ever-growing tobacco companies who have recently proposed contract buying. Any proposed change in the program by tobacco farmers needs to be endorsed and supported by farm organizations and by Congress.

9. We support the upgrading and modernization of the inland waterway transportation system with trust funds.

10. We support the current price support program structure for peanuts. Maintain current no government cost provision.

11. We support the current sugar loan program. Elimination of Marketing Assessment. Elimination of 1-cent forfeiture penalty.

12. We support the "minor" oilseed marketing loan program at $9.30 which includes sunflowers, canola, mustard and crambe.

13. We support the continuation of the current dairy price support program through 2002 to coincide with the farm bill expiration.

14. We urge Congress to consider a federal tax credit/refund for state and local property taxes paid in the event an across-the-board tax cut is enacted.

15. We support making family farms and small business eligible for up to $500,000 in capital gains tax exemption for the sale of farm or business property.

16. The concept of a National Renewable Fuels Standard shall be

eate Unified Policy Statemen supported.

17. We support federal farm programs due to the fundamentally unique business structure farmers have.

18. We urge the Surface Transportation Board (STB) (to) ensure fair and equitable treatment for all shippers, (elevators, etc.) especially those who have reasonable access to only one railroad.

19. We support that EPA (U.S. Environmental Protection Agency) use sound, scientific. actual-use data, and not assumptions, in the regulation writing for (the Food Quality Protection Act) FQPA.

INDUSTRY CONCENTRATION

1. Competitive markets are good for farmers, ranchers, and consumers.

2. We call on the Congress, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), the Department of Justice, and the Federal Trade Commission to monitor and investigate all mergers, ownership changes, interlocking directorates, joint ventures and strategic alliances in the agriculture industry to determine whether competitive markets for farmers and ranchers have been or will be compromised; and take necessary steps to prevent and/or reverse such mergers and ownership changes.

3. We call for Congress to provide adequate funding for consistent oversight and vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws, including Section 202 of the Packers and Stockyards Act. We also call on Congress to examine the relevance of existing antitrust and monopoloy laws for the 21st century.

4. We support investigation by proper agencies as to whether the concentration in agriculture is harmful to crop and livestock producers' profitability.

5. We support creation of a public policy environment that would foster and expand competitive market opportunities and infrastructure.

6. We support mandatory price and volume reporting for all livestock slaughtered, processed and marketed in the United States by packers, processors and importers that control a significant portion of a national or regional market for a particular commodity.

7. We encourage a review of federal policies on the patenting and licensing of agricultural products produced through public and private funding.

8. We call for development and implementation of national legislation prohibiting unjust or unreasonable conduct by a business that is in a dominating position in contracting, supplying or buying agricultural goods or services.

9. We oppose the use of the USDA grade label on imported meat.

10. We call on Congress to amend the Clayton Act to give standing in federal court to indirect purchasers, in price fixing and other anti-trust cases (i.e. repeal the Illinois-Brick decision).

RISK MANAGEMENT

We support crop/revenue insurance as only one of the components of an adequate farm safety net. Modifications should be made to the federal insurance programs to expand production and revenue coverage opportunities for all producers at more affordable premium rates and improve program performance and delivery. These programs need to be compatible with market risk management opportunities.

1. Increased participation will enhance the actuarial soundness of the programs while ensuring greater economic stability in production agriculture.

2. Improved coverage levels at affordable premium cost will reduce the need for ad hoc production loss disaster programs.

3. Administrative reform will improve the efficiency and integrity of the crop insurance programs.

• Provide increased and inverted premium subsidies for crop loss products.

• Allow for program adjustments to minimize the coverage impact of natural disasters.

• Develop multi-year coverage options.

• Modify quality adjustment provisions to reflect market discounts.

• Establish innovative coverage options.

• Support revenue-based risk management tools for all states and crops.

• Provide equity and comparability of coverage across production sectors and regions, including prevented planting and re-plant coverage based on actuarially sound data.

• Develop nationwide pilot programs to expand coverage availability for crops and livestock.

• Correct/modify the rating methodology to reflect actual production capacity.

• Provide individualized "good experience" discounts.

• Review the risk and expense sharing agreements between the insurance companies and RMA (USDA's Risk Management Agency).

Administrative Reform Components (For Risk Management)

1. Provide regulatory and monetary incentives to encourage the development of new crop insurance products.

2. Reform the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC)/Risk Management Agency relationship to clarify roles and responsibilities, improve producer representation and reduce any conflicts of interest.

3. Improve public/private effectiveness in reducing program fraud and abuse.

Commodity Futures (Risk Management)

We support an effective regulatory system for the agricultural futures and options markets enforced by Commodity Futures Trading Commission (CFTC) to ensure market integrity, transparent commodity price discovery and enhance market price risk management opportunities for agricultural producers. The oversight function of the (U.S.) Senate and House Agriculture committees should be maintained.

• We support CFTC providing stronger enforcement of the prohibition of insider trading and market manipulation.

Agricultural Credit (Risk Management)

We support the availability of agricultural credit in rural America at affordable interest rates.

1. There should be an adequate funding base and program regulation modifications to ensure adequate agricultural credit availability for farmers and ranchers through the USDA direct and guaranteed loan programs.

• USDA's credit programs are necessary to ensure eligible producers have adequate credit during economic crises.

• USDA credit programs provide an opportunity for eligible beginning and limited resource farmers to enter and remain in agricultural production.

• USDA regulatory flexibility is needed to allow the program to adjust and react to changing economic needs of borrowers while minimizing the risk of losses to the program.

2. Make Chapter 12 bankruptcy permanent law.

TRADE

American farmers and ranchers need increased access to world markets for their products, and markets free from unfair import and export trade practices.

Structure For Trade

1. We believe that producers and the congressional agriculture committees should be actively involved in preparations for and oversight of trade negotiations.

2. We support making the special ambassador for agriculture a permanent position in the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative.

3. We support consistent standards in classifying countries as developed or developing where that classification affects trade negotiations or trade patterns.

Chambersburg Dairyman's Manure Management Dream Slowly Becomes Reality

noon barbecue and it doesn't contaminate their water supply. We in agriculture have not focused on that point."

But, Hawbaker noted, "I go to the same school, the same church, the same things as they do. And I don't want to be a culprit."

Hawbaker's manure separate strategies are similar to municipal waste treatment facilities, arranged in stages. The dairy has a traditional barn area (in this case, a monoslope barn, similar to a Virginia-style heifer facility which houses milk and dry cows). After the water is flushed from the barns, it is then run over a solid-set screen, which removes the solids. Those solids are transferred to the compost site.

At the site, the solids are mixed with grass, leaves, and brush from the local municipality and turned. The blend is either land-applied or marketed. Other solids are returned for bedding.

The compost operation "is a hobby, not a mortgage burner," he said. But Hawbaker's obsession is ridding the farm of the manure in a way in which the farm, and others, can benefit.

The second stage involves taking the fluid into a lagoon- type pit, more than 2,000 feet away from the paddocks, where it is constantly aerated.

"It's so simple," he said. "You have to forget about a traditional lagoon. We do not have a lagoon — though you may call it that. They are 'animal waste cells,'" he said. "They are treated, not with chemicals, but the way we hold and process it."

The "secret," Hawbaker noted, is to keep the water turning to keep it in an aerobic form.

The concept of aeration by circulation is as "old as the hills," he said, and is the central factor used by many municipality treatment centers. Hawbaker uses a three-quarter horsepower motor running paddles suspended about a foot from the surface of the pit, rotating constantly. The fan paddles create a vortex in the water, rotating fast enough to keep the water agitated and the unit in place.

The third stage, or cell, allows further processing of the manure. Eventually, the finer processed material will have little or no odor.

Getting to that third stage remains in experimental form — but Hawbaker believes he is rapidly closing in on a solution.

"I'm excited about what we've done," he said. "Our goal was, and we're very close to that right now, is one acre (of land-applied liquid) for every 10 cows. And we are very close to that."

The municipal type process can be applied to dairy farms, like Hawbaker's, that don't have the money to create a sophisticated and expensive system.

Hawbaker deals with other challenges on the dairy, including Beddington-type soil, on land that is very hilly with subsurface drainage. They are limited in how much liquid nutrients they can apply at one time.

The process needs to be carefully monitored. Depending on the temperature, time of year, dilution and other factors, the odors that can sometimes result are not manure smells, typical of a dairy, but municipality, sulfide-type odors.

The problem is one of dilution, because of the droughty winter and unseasonably cool spring. Hawbaker needs the projected 3.75 inches of rain per month to contribute to the working of the animal waste cells.

That's just another challenge Hawbaker faces, but which he believes can be overcome.

"It's like climbing up a hill and you get to the top of this plateau and you say, 'Wow! There's a whole wide world out there. Let's go!'" said Hawbaker. "And that's what we have with this animal waste. Odors have to be eliminated."

His goal, he said, is to take the spent waste liquid nutrient product and apply that to a paddock following grazing.

The 60 acres devoted to paddocks are arranged in 16-acre blocks divided into two acres, where the cattle graze for two days each.

For the liquid manure, they will continue to follow the rotation of the cows. Each application includes 1 to 1.5 inches of liquid manure per 16-day cycle.

"I'm trying something that hasn't been tried before," he said. Though he still has to bury the main lines and get the pump ready, including a backup, the work has taken them a long way from where they were.

"This is our dream," he said. "It's our '99 project. It has yet to be proven." Within a year, Hawbaker noted, it could be possible to have a complete system up and running. He wants to be able to apply the lidquids regularly early in the morning.

If Hawbaker had the money such as municipalities do, he could include additives to make the manure smell like roses, or pine, or whatever. He could use additives, but he believes in using something that is cost-effective.

He still looks at manure holding stations as big wheelbarrows filled with a potentially contaminating substance.

Hawbaker believes they evolved into the state they are today — large manure storage structures.

"It all started out with a little wheelbarrow," he said, "to haul the manure out. We wanted a bigger wheelbarrow, so we had a horse. We put a little cart behind it, to haul this manure out. And we didn't need the horse anymore, we had a tractor, so we built a bigger barrow. And now we got these humongous barrows. Then we said, we can only apply it twice a year, so we'll make this big, humongous barrow — a stinkhole."

Dealing with nutrient management problems by building large storage areas does't sufficiently answer the concerns. Many of the structures can potentially leak.

But processing the manure and applying it to a sufficient crop, such as grasses, effectively handle the excess nutrients.

Hawbaker's goal is 400 cows on 40 acres.

While it is unrealistic to get zero odors, at least the odors can be brought to an acceptable level, from which township regulations can agree on.

Universities, government, and some private industries show interest in Hawbaker's 1999 project. Private companies are interested in his design on the aerators. Trouble is, there are few willing to make a commitment to a complete, "turn-key" approach that fully solves what the customer is looking for.

In the meantime, Hawbaker continues his experiments on tackling those issues.

On the dairy itself, the 243-acre Century Farm is in the sixth generation. Hawbaker farms along with wife Maggie, in charge of the recordkeeping and accounting. He said Maggie is his "partner, she's my friend, and we dream together." The farm family includes daughters Juanita Garber, 21; Emily, 19; and Dawn, 12. Juanita is in charge of calf raising, assisting with herd work, part-time. Emily assists with the crops and helps wherever needed while attending Hagerstown Business College, majoring in health information and technology. Dawn helps with feeding.

Other workers include Jeff Bricker, full-time crop, feed, and equipment manager; Melquiades (Mamin) Valencia, full-time milking technician; Gary Burkholder, full-time milking technician; and another milking technician, Kevin Boope.

The farm includes 35 acres in corn and 300 acres of mixed hay and pasture. On the pasture, mostly orchardgrass and some perennial ryegrasses are grown, the best type of crop for his soils.

Hawbaker buys a lot of feed from outside cooperatives and private sources. He recently purchased a 250-ton load of alfalfa hay, with a relative feed value of 180, off of a 150-acre irrigated field provided by a grower in Center, Colo. Hawbaker buys 2,500 tons per year of corn silage from various sources. He even purchased citrus pulp from a Florida broker.

Milking is three times a day. The Hawbakers are milking about 333 cows. Each technician milks by himself, on a seven-hour shift. The cows are taken through a double-9 herringbone parlor, good for up to 500 cows.

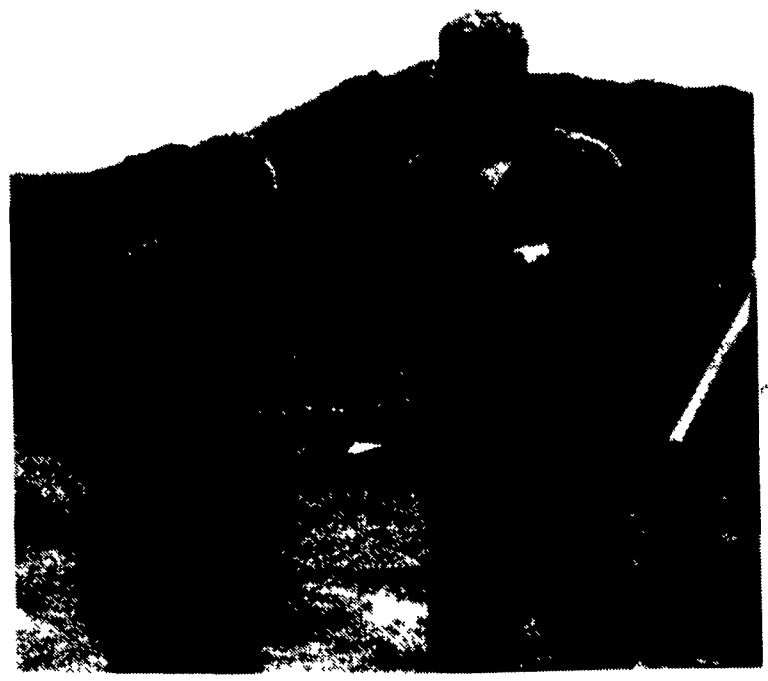
The Hawbakers have used BST in the past, but Hawbaker questions the economics. "I'm questioning it right now," he said. "It's a tool. I have to get a return, or why do it?"

One innovation was the installation of a series of open- fronted monoslope barns. The first was built in 1989, the second in 1990, the third in 1993, and the fourth in 1994. The barns, for the milking and dry cows, are arranged 4 degrees west of south to take the best advantage of the sun and wind.

Cow comfort is a high priority, which includes 100 square feet per cow. Each group has an exercise lot.

Milk is shipped to the Md.-Va. Milk Co-op in Arlington, Va.

At the site, the solids are mixed with grass, leaves, and brush from the local municipality and turned. The blend is either land-applied or marketed. Other solids are returned for bedding. The compost operation "is a hobby, not a mortgage burner," said Hawbaker.



At the compost site, Cliff Hawbaker, right, looks over work in progress with Jack Horner, driver.

Multilateral Issues For Trade

1. We believe that United States' exports of food, fiber, and food and fiber products should not be used as the subject of sanctions.

2. We believe dispute resolution procedures should be improved and sped up (especially for seasonal products) with adequate assurance of compliance or with penalties or compensation once decisions are reached.

3. We believe that imports of agricultural products should meet United States standards for production and processing where consumer health or the environment may be impacted.

4. We believe that export subsidies as defined in the Uruguay Round (of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) should be immediately eliminated on a multilateral basis.

5. We believe that the President should immediately approve the pending license request to permit the sale of agricultural commodities to Iran.

Domestic Trade

1. We support a trade adjustment assistance program to counterbalance distortive trade impacting practices of exporters.

2. We believe that trade negotiations should encourage more private sector trading and less state trading or state supported trading in agricultural commodities.

3. We believe funding for agriculture export and food assistance programs should be increased.

Other Trade Issues

1. We believe that the needs of United States agriculture be considered in the development of monetary policy, including safeguards against unfair manipulation of exchange rates.

2. We believe that efforts should be supported to bring eligible countries into the World Trade Organization, on terms that are favorable to United State agriculture.

Mid-Atlantic Produce Conference Set

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. — Attracting upscale buyers with better quality, locally grown vegetables and small fruit at regional wholesale markets is one aim of a Mid-Atlantic regional post-harvest handling conference scheduled May 25-27 here at the Sheraton Inn.

The 2-1/2-day event is being sponsored by the cooperative extension arm of land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia in conjunction with the Northern Neck Wholesale Farmers Market and the Virginia Farmers Market Board.

Speakers from all three states will appear on the program, along with specialists and extension educators from Rutgers, North Carolina State University, and the USDA.

David S. Ross, a conference co-chairperson, notes that the overall objective is to provide training for producers, extension educators, and agricultural researchers to help them better understand and implement a systematic post-harvest program for marketing vegetables and small fruit in the Mid-Atlantic area.

Ross is a fruit and vegetable post-harvest handling specialist in the Biological Resources Engineering department at the University of Maryland, College Park.

The conference finale will include a bus trip to observe physical distribution procedures and practices at the Drayton McLane Food Distribution Center a short distance south of Fredericksburg. The tour group then will head to the Northern Neck Wholesale Farmers Market at Oak Grove, Va., for a catered lunch and observation of post-harvest technology, storage, and marketing operations at that facility.

A $30 registration fee includes lunches and printed materials for the entire conference. The registration deadline is May 14. Make checks payable to VCE-Westmoreland County. Send them with name and address to Samuel M. Johnson, Director, Westmoreland County Unit, Virginia Cooperative Extension, P.O. Box 8, Montross, VA 22520, or call (804) 493-8924.

Make hotel room reservations by May 12 with the Sheraton Inn at Fredericksburg, Va., (540) 786-8321. Specify that you are attending the Virginia Tech Post-Harvest Handling Conference.

Wet or dry?

The 4755 easily handles both In fact, you can bale high-moisture crops and seal in high feed values without any equipment modifications

Plus, an optional bale ejector and roller chute let you discharge the last bale at the end of each day

But the secret to our big bale success is in the charge chamber

Hay enters the charge chamber, where it's held until it reaches a preset density

Get your three squares a day... and then some.

Only then is it fed, triggered by a sensor, into the bale chamber for final compression

Unmatched consistency.

Since one charge makes one flake, you get unmatched bale consistency regardless of the crop or ground speed

That's the Hesston difference, and it's backed by 20 years of field experience

Ten Things You Can Do To Improve Your Sales

JOHN BERRY
Penn State Extension
Marketing Specialist

1) Add More Value To What You Sell

Have you ever heard a customer ask you, "Is that all I get for this price?" Chances are you have. It could mean that you are not offering enough value for what you are charging, or it could be a misinformed client. In either case, you won't get repeat business if you customer feels like they over-paid for your products or services. What can you do to add value to your products or services?

Try adding value by including items that cost you very little or even nothing at all. An example of this might be recipes, preparation ideas or nutritional information. Have you ever tried carrying customer purchases from the checkout to their car? By adding this small, low cost item, you will make the decision to buy that much easier for your customers. This works in all types of product and service transactions. Think of creative ways in which you can add value to your base product or service offerings. A small addition can easily make a major difference to your profits!

2) Offer Items Of Complimentary Importance With Each Purchase

This is one of the most profitable things you can do to increase your average unit of purchase. You accomplish two things by offering complimentary products or services. First, you add value to your products or services by offering items that you know your customers will need to buy at some point in the future anyway, and you are saving them the trouble of having to patronize another business for these items. They will actually appreciate you more if you have these items available to them at the time of purchase!

If you sell items that can be prepared on the grill, also offer charcoal, propane, b-b-q sauce, ice and other useful accessories to your customers at the time of purchase. Use your imagination and get access to complimentary products that enhance your client's purchase.

3) Sell Upgrades

Upgrades differ from complimentary products in that they are generally a better version of the same product as opposed to a complimentary or "add-on" product. In the computer industry, as in many others, this is done all the time. There is no reason that you could not apply those same tactics to your own business with a little creativity. You've been sold upgrades when you bought your new car, your color television, or just about any other product you can think of!

It works like this, you explain the advantages of the first product to your customer, then you "do them a favor" by offering them a peek at the next level up. In many cases, you'll find that your customer will opt to pay a "few extra cents" to get a few more benefits or an altogether better product. All you have to do is think about your business and what you can offer as the next best thing, for a few more dollars!

4) Offer Warranties

Stand behind your products! Use the three R's method. Repair, replace or refund. By offering that sort of warranty, you'll also increase your sales by making your customers feel more secure in purchasing from you.

5) Use Risk Reversal

Here's a really powerful way to increase your sales, but you have to think this one out carefully or you might lose your shirt! The idea is to offer your products or services as risk free as possible to your customers. The rule of thumb is to keep the risk to your customer as low as possible. You'll see immediate benefits in increased sales. Returns on quality products have proven not to increase proportionately with sales, so don't worry about being overwhelmed by returns, it won't happen!

6) Create Special Offers To Past Customers

The most profitable market you can sell to are your past customers. They have already participated in business transactions with you and have developed trust in your operation and in your products. Why not take full advantage of this fact by developing specials for "preferred customers?" Credit card companies do this all the time-just watch your mail this week!

If you negotiate a special deal for some product or are planning on carrying an entirely new product line, why not let your preferred customers know about it BEFORE the rest of the world? Go a step further and offer them

Trusted Borden® Brand Positions DFA In Booming Cheese Markets

In American retail markets gone mad for cheese (76 percent of all American households consume cheese, according to a USDA study), the Borden® brand and Elsie™ the Cow are household names to millions. To Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) members, they are an important entrée to grocer dairy cases and consumer loyalty across the country.

Through the acquisition of the Borden brand in late 1997, DFA demonstrated a strategic commitment to helping dairy farmers capture a larger share in highly competitive food markets. For nearly 70 years, Borden and Elsie have become icons for great taste, wholesome quality and value to cheese-loving Americans — a market in which milk producers have traditionally struggled to directly compete for profits.

"As we look to the future of our cheese business, we are excited by the acquisition of the Borden label," says Lonnie Spurgeon, senior vice president and chief operating officer for the DFA Dairy Foods Group. "It gives us access to an established and highly regarded name in the retail market, where we see opportunity for future growth and product expansion."

In light of a 1996 USDA study that shows domestic per capita cheese consumption climbing by 2 percent annually — up a total of 27 percent since 1980 — the acquisition provides an important foothold for DFA in cheese product development and marketing.

"Research has shown that, in the United States, Borden is the most recognized natural dairy brand, with an unaided consumer awareness score of 15 percent," Spurgeon explains. "That's a solid foundation upon which we can continue to build and grow Borden product success and reputation.

"The report also indicates that consumers identify convenience as the No. 1 reason to purchase single-wrapped cheese," Spurgeon adds. "That's where the Borden label comes in. Borden is one of the country's leading manufacturers of cheese singles in regular, low-fat and no-fat choices.

"Our vision is to expand Borden product lines while capitalizing on its brand name identity and product reputation," Spurgeon says. "When consumers buy cheese, we want them to think Borden."

Maryland & Virginia Milk Co-op Elects Officers

RESTON, Va. — The recently merged Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc. named its new general manager and elected a board of officers during an April board meeting, according to the cooperative.

Robert Shore of Washington, D.C., was named general manager, promoted from assistant general manager. As general manager, he replaces George Walgrove, of Laurel, Md., who retired April 9.

The election and transition of general managers happened eight days after a consolidation of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative with the Virginia and Carolina Milk Producers Co-op.

As a merged organization, the 1,560-member cooperative is set to have its first annual meeting next spring. Membership extends to 10 states, including Pennsylvania. The cooperative is headquartered in Reston, Va., but also has a regional office in Charlotte, N.C.

Shore joined the Maryland and Virginia Co-op in September 1997. He is a board member of National Milk Producers Federation and the American Dairy Products Institute.

Chairman of the management committee for the Middle Atlantic Cooperative Milk Marketing Association, Shore also serves as secretary/treasurer for the South Dairy Farmers Association.

Shore is also active politically, more recently promoting the concept of federal authorization for a dairy compact in the South that would function similarly to the existing Northeast Dairy Compact that was created for the six New England states.

Before joining the Maryland and Virginia Co-op, Shore was general manager of the Carolina

Virginia Milk Producers for 13 years at its Charlotte, N.C. main office. In fact he was instrumental in that cooperative's creation.

According to a news release, "After working with Sealtest, Kraft (Food)'s Dairy Group, and when Sealtest closed its fluid milk plants, Shore created Carolina Virginia to provide a market for the independent shippers."

He is also credited with helping to create the Dairy Cooperative Marketing Association and the Southeast Dairy Farmers Association.

Shore was raised on a dairy farm in Piedmont, N.C., and was graduated from North Carolina State University in 1981 where he earned a bachelor of science degree in food science and animal science.

In an election of officers, Shore was elected secretary of the board.

Re-elected to a third term as president was John (Jack) Hardesty of Berryville, Va.

Prior to his first term as president, Hardesty served for 11 years as first vice president, and for three years as second vice president of the Maryland and Virginia Co-op. He has been a member of the board since 1981.

Hardesty owns and operates Harvue Farms with sons David and Johnny, where they milk 300 registered Holsteins and farm 1,600 acres. He and his wife, Carter, have six grandchildren.

Steve Graybeal of Peach Bottom was re-elected first vice president; while Clyde Daniels, of Louisburg, N.C., former president of the Carolina Virginia Milk Producers, was elected second vice president.

Staff officers re-elected were William Gilmore, assistant secretary; and marjorie Barroso, treasurer.

Walgrove Retires From Maryland & Virginia Milk Co-op

RESTON, Va. — After almost 40 years in the dairy industry and 15 years with Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative, George R. Walgrove Jr. of Laurel, Md., retired in April.

Walgrove served as secretary and general manager for the cooperative. He was replaced by Robert Shore of Washington, D.C.

Walgrove's retirement became effective April 9.

According to a cooperative news release, "Known through the industry for his leadership, integrity and compassion, (Walgrove) was instrumental in forging new partnerships and uniting the dairy industry for the benefit of all dairy farmers."

Born and raised in Scarsdale, N.Y., he was graduated from Rutgers University in 1954 with a bachelor of science degree in dairy sciences. After more than three years in the United States Marine special pricing on those products or services if they act before a specified date. You'll be amazed at what happens. Your customers will feel special and many will take you up on your special offer! That's a great way to improve your bottom line and customer loyalty!

7) Use Cross-Overs With Other Companies

Maybe you don't pay enough attention to this powerful marketing technique. It is so simple, many companies just don't put any faith into its true power. The idea is to work with other companies to offer each other's products and services to each other's customers. It's reciprocal and it is profitable for BOTH companies.

Here's how it works. As a retailer, you could offer all patrons of a local restaurant a voucher for 10% off their next purchase at your store. In return, you might offer your customers a voucher for one free drink, of half off the regular cost of a dinner at the restaurant you are reciprocating with. Both companies win, and there is little or no money involved! Absolutely perfect!

8) Get As Much Free Publicity As Possible As Often As Possible

When was the last time you sent out a press release? Don't remember, huh? I thought so Well, you're missing out on one the best advertising opportunities you never bought! It's certainly true that you never need spend a penny to get publicity in local, regional or even national publications! All it requires is that you craft a press release and mail it to publications you feel might be interested in publishing your information. Sounds easy enough, so why aren't you doing it?

What type of information is newsworthy? Just about anything that is new, exciting, or different about your business. A press release sent out by one farm market described their involvement with a local food bank. It might explain where the company was, what they were doing and what had changed in order to gain the success they are enjoying today. When that type of article is published, you can imagine how much the telephone rings from potential customers wanting to support this market. Imagine what it will do for your business as well!

9) Remember Your Customers At Holiday Time

Why not tell your customers how much you appreciate their business all year long with a thoughtful (as opposed to generic) holiday greeting card? You might even include a voucher for a special item(s) you have on sale or just a simple "10% off you next purchase" coupon. What a great way to keep selling through the lean months of January and February! Not only that, but you'll reinforce that fact that your customer is important to you and you appreciate their continued patronage. It's a very powerful tool that just is not used nearly enough! Use it!

10) Simplify The Sales Process

Do you offer your customers various payment options? I'm not just talking about accepting popular credit cards. If you have the capability to offer your own credit plan, you might consider that too. Are you involved with the FMCP vouchers for WIC families? The idea is to offer as many payment options as possible so that you totally remove payment as a barrier to making a purchase with you.

Conclusion

You now have the sparks that will ignite your creative juices and help you sell more of your products or services. Try the items that are easiest for you to implement immediately and if they work for you, then try to adapt some of the others to your business and watch your sales continue to rise! If you can't seem to be able to use any of these items, then call me and I'll work with you to get you on the right track to growing your business!!

Forage, Grazing Meeting Set

BLOOMSBURG (Columbia Co.) — Penn State Extension in the Susquehanna Region will be sponsoring on-farm meetings this summer to continue to provide education on management of forage and grazing. The first meeting will be at the farm of Marlin Schock in Columbia County Tuesday, May 11 at 7 p.m.

Schock works with several types of forage species for pasture and hay production on his farm, including orchardgrass, tall fescue, timothy, clover and alfalfa. He has several varieties of orchardgrass including Potomac, Common, Pennlate, Warrior, and Okay. These range in relative maturities with Potomac being the earliest and Okay being the latest. Marlin has a cow/calf operation with 24 brood cows.

From Route 42 a mile north of Numidia, turn onto Ideal Park road. Go straight through Slabtown. After about 2.5 miles from where you turned you will pass the second red barn right along the road. Turn right onto Maple Tree Road. It is the first farm on the left. Phone number is (570) 799-5295.

Penn State encourages persons with disabilities to participate in its programs and activities. If you anticipate needing any type of accommodation or have questions about the physical access provided, contact David Hartman at (570) 784-6660 in advance of your participation or visit.

Packing House Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A meeting to determine grower interest in establishing a Lancaster-based vegetable packing house was conducted recently here at the Farm and Home Center.

About 20 growers listened as Dan Schantz, Zionsville, who operates a packing house for fall ornamentals, and Rob Amsterdam, president of Habets Trading USA, spoke about the development and operation of a vegetable packing house.

The meeting was conducted to examine grower interest in establishing a packing house in the area, according to Jeff Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County School District Adult Farmer Program adviser. The house would serve a large area around Lancaster County.

More work needs to be done to examine grower commitment to a house, which will be necessary to attract supermarket buyers, according to Tim Elkner, Lancaster horticultural agent. Extension will develop a survey to determine the viability of a packing house, noted Elkner.

Other meetings to discuss the development of a possible owner cooperative to establish the house will be planned for sometime in late fall, said Stoltzfus. He noted it would be some time before plans could be finalized and a house constructed.

Elect Jere Swarr

Endorsed Republican Candidate for County Commissioner

"The challenges facing Lancaster County are great, but the talents in this County are greater. Working together, we can meet and exceed the goals we all want to accomplish.

JERE SWARR IS A PROVEN LEADER:

Jere has been in Rapho Township government for twelve years, serving as supervisor since 1994. He has been instrumental in initiating inter-municipal cooperation.

JERE SWARR HAS A SOLID UNDERSTANDING OF THE NEEDS OF LANCASTER COUNTY:

Jere was an integral part of creating the Manheim Central Regional current comprehensive plan and the county's first Urban Growth boundaries. His hands-on experience with the core issues of Lancaster County - traffic, development, public safety, economic growth and farmland preservation - make him uniquely qualified to serve on the Board of Commissioners.

JERE IS THE CANDIDATE THAT CAN BRING CRITICAL RURAL/AG BALANCE TO THE BOARD:

As a successful self-employed agri-businessman for the past eighteen years, Jere's integrity and common sense will bring focus to the complex issues facing our County.

JERE HAS A PROVEN RECORD OF EFFECTIVENESS:

His ability to bring people together and "we can get this done" attitude, along with his years of grassroots involvement, has brought him the respect of Lancaster Countians from both sides of the issues.

Walgrove Retires

Corps, in 1960 he began a carreer in the dairy industry, working as a field man with H.P. Hood Inc., of Newport, Vermont.

He gained manufacturing plant experience in St. Albans, Vermont, and continued in similar work in Kansas and Pennsylvania before moving to Laurel, Md., to work with the Maryland and Virginia cooperative.

Walgrove started with Maryland and Virginia in 1984 as assistant manager in the manufacturing division, later being promoted to division manager. He became general manager of the cooperative in April 1994.

A past president of the Dairy Technology Society of Maryland and Washington, D.C., Walgrove is a former secretary/treasurer for the Dairy Export Incentive Program Coalition. For four years, he served as a board member for National Milk Producers Federal and the American Dairy Products Institute.

Fred Scott, general manager for Valley of Virginia Milk Producers, located in Harrisonburg, Virginia, said he admired Walgrove who served as a "model for the rest of us ... one that is topped with integrity, professionalism, and (he) always considers what is right and proper for all concerned, especially the dairy producers."

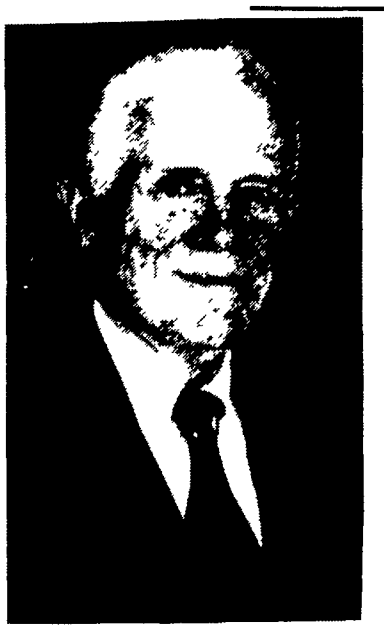
Russell Wachter of Keymar, Maryland, is a former president of the Maryland and Virginia cooperative who worked with Walgrove during Walgrove's first three years as general manager.

"George was always trying to do the best he could for the welfare of the membership. A strong Christian man, a great listener, and excellent communicator, compassionate and one one of the first to be there in times of sickness or trouble; he just had a charisma about him. People got a good feeling talking to him. They just liked him as a person."

Walgrove said he and his wife Norma, who have been married for 44 years, are excited about their future, with plans to spend more time with their grandchildren, and doing hiking, camping, biking, flying and traveling, such as to places as Paupau, New Guinea, where they recently visited friends who work for Wycliffe Bible Translators.

John Hardesty, president of the cooperative who worked with Walgrove the past two years, said the retiring general manager is, "Not only a good manager, but a good man. The membership, directors and staff express their sincere appreciation for George's commitment to excellence and years of faithful service."

Hardesty said the cooperative extended wishes for Walgrove and his wife well in their future endeavors.



George Walgrove retires as general manager of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative Association Inc.

The NYFA is looking for some Pennsylvania farmers (and others) to host one or a few members of the NYFA for a few days either before or immediately after the National Institute in Hershey in December of this year.

- Enjoy telling others abou your farming operation/interests;
- Enjoy learning about agriculture elsewhere;
- Are associated with agriculture in any way – active, retired, vo-ag teacher, YF adviser, etc.

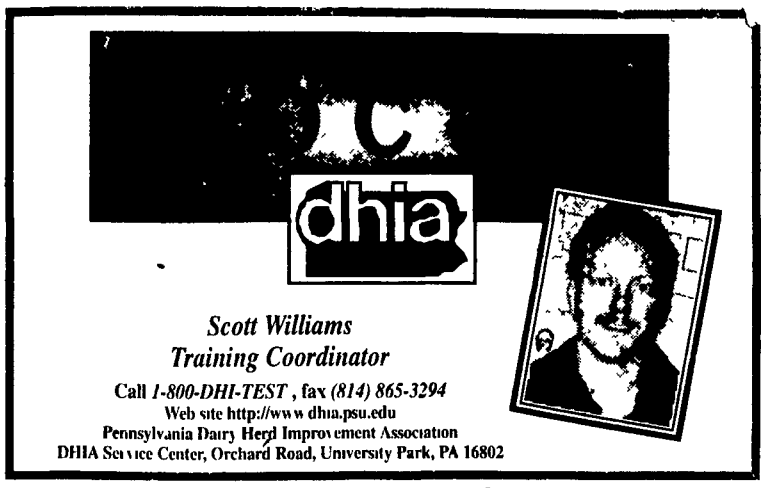
PENNSYLVANIA YOUNG FARMERS



QUESTION: How should we use a topdress to address nutrient needs of cows in early lactation?

ANSWER: It is no particular secret to anyone that I am not a big supporter of using so-called high producer topdresses.

This is particularly true when we talk about combining topdress with TMRs.

I will admit that I have witnessed instances where a topdress was used very successfully. Some people's artistic ability to provide balanced nutrients in a cow's diet surpasses sound common sense and is even beyond my imagination.

Instead, let us talk about ways to evaluate if our topdressing scheme happens to be among the elite that works.

Physical characteristics can help us evaluate topdress success. Tracking body condition during times when we employ a high-producer topdress is the first observation we can make.

Severe body weight loss during early lactation can be caused by many factors. After we eliminate health conditions that may decrease dry matter intakes, we should evaluate whether high protein contained in the topdress may induce cows to metabolize body reserves faster than normal.

Dairyman To Dairyman

One item important to check is early lactation butterfat percent.

Cows that start their lactation with an abnormally high butterfat test and then suddenly drop by 1 percent or more by the next test may tell us that very story. In severe cases, this may lead to some degree of ketosis.

Remember, body condition loss is expected, but our goal is to minimize the rate of loss so that our cows have a chance at sustaining high levels of production while dry matter intake catches up with production.

Do not let the use of a topdress destroy this plan.

Manure evaluation can be a useful tool to evaluate how our high producer topdress is working. Cows that are properly prepared to enter the lactation stage again and do not have health problems should have manure that is nearly identical to other producers in the herd. Color and consistency are the two items that will be associated with topdress usage, primarily.

High protein in the diet that is out of balance with other nutrients will tend to produce manure that is much looser and darker colored than the other cows' manure. If this is observed in conjunction with the use of a topdress, then maybe the makeup is wrong, or the use unnecessary.

One other way I evaluate workability of topdresses is to use the MUN tool.

When a topdress is used to supply high protein needs without concern for other nutrient balance, we observe cows with higher than average MUN values.

If the herd average MUN is correct, but the highest values turn out to coincide with cows that produce the most milk, or are in the earliest part of lactation then we need to question if the topdress addresses the cow's real needs. High MUN levels mean protein and energy are out of balance. This may be due to overfeeding protein or under using it by lack of energy. I believe topdresses tend to be a combination.

Lastly, if you desire to try a topdress with your herd, learn to recognize the signs that will tell you if this is proper for your herd.

Consulting with a reputable nutritionist, veterinarian, or extension agent is the best place to start. You also need to become familiar with ways to measure the cows' performance and reactions to topdresses.

Did You Pay Too Much Tax?

Guest Columnist: Lowell B. Fry, Fulton Bank, Chair of The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce & Industry's Agriculture Committee

April 15th has passed, and if you are like me, you did not enjoy writing the check that paid the government some of your hard-earned money. Even today, 225 years after our forefathers protested against taxation without representation, we do not like to pay taxes even with representation. Many of us see the money paid to our government as lost, and we will do anything to reduce this obligation.

In agriculture, we enjoy many benefits. First, most farms are operated as sole proprietorships and thus some personal expenses are included with the business expense. Items such as real estate taxes, pick-up truck expense, clothing and utilities can be deducted from taxable income. The second benefit is the effect of cash accounting. Cash accounting accounts for income and expenses when you either write or receive the check. In contrast is accrual accounting, which accounts for expenses when the income is earned or the expense is incurred.

While most farmers are aware of the tax benefits of shifting income and expenses from one year to the next, I will admit often the wrong approach is taken to reduce the tax burden. Farmers enjoy operating new equipment and indeed, a well-maintained and serviceable line of equipment is necessary on today's farms. Many times, however, this equipment is not purchased for its benefit to the farm operation, but rather, to gain the depreciation which will in turn reduce the tax bill. The direst situations are the ones where the money is borrowed to purchase the equipment for the purposes of tax reduction. More than once, I have seen a farm owner purchase a new piece of equipment, simply to reduce the tax bill, but then struggle to keep up with the payments in the coming years.

If one stops to calculate the tax benefit of equipment purchases, it becomes abundantly clear why this is not a sound business practice. Assume you purchase a new tractor for $80,000 and the debt is financed over five years, thus the monthly payment would be $1,622 at 8% interest. If the tractor was depreciated over seven years, the depreciation would average $11,428 per year. To finish the calculation, you must then multiply the depreciation by your tax rate, which for most farmers is 15% for Federal and approximately 2% for state. The result is a tax savings benefit of $1,942. While this certainly is a savings, you will need to pay $19,464 each year in debt payments, a greater strain on your cash flow.

Given that profitability in farming can change dramatically from one year to the next, I feel that there is a better way to reduce your tax burden without negatively impacting your cash flow for years to come. That way is prepaid expenses. Many farmers do some of this, but more can be done to take advantage of this benefit of agriculture. Rather than buying a piece of equipment which will take years to repay, purchase your feed, seed, fertilizer, chemicals and supplies for the coming year. In other words, prepay operating costs rather than overhead. Even if you need to borrow the money, you will be much further ahead, as most manufactures and dealers will give an early pay discount that will cover your interest expense. Since these items would have been paid out of cash flow anyway, your overall cash flow is not negatively impacted

By prepaying operating expenses rather than purchasing equipment, you are allowing your cash flow to remain flexible. If 1999 does not prove to be as profitable as 1998, you will not need the benefit of prepaid expenses at year-end. If, however, you purchased equipment, the debt payment will continue regardless of your profitability.

Certainly, equipment is a necessary part of modern farming practices and will need to be purchased. What I am suggesting is that the decision to purchase the equipment be based on the need and benefit of that piece to your farming operation and not on the anticipated tax benefit. In a tough year, equipment debt can act as a millstone around your neck and drag the operation down

Paying a tax bill is not a pleasant experience but the alternative is not great either The successful farmer will anticipate paying tax and will plan for it, for they know that if they are not paying income tax, their business is not growing and prospering. While each of us seeks to reduce our share of income tax, it is sometimes cheaper to pay the tax than to avoid it.

If you have questions or comments, contact Lowell Fry at (717) 291-2462 or by mail at Fulton Bank, One Penn Square, Lancaster, PA 17602.

Correction: In the Lancaster Chamber's April article there was a misprint. Lancaster County has over $700 million in total agriculture receipts.

Simmental Juniors Swing Into Summer Season

BOZEMAN, Mont. — Junior members of the American Simmental Association (ASA) are looking forward to a summer filled with enjoyable, beef industry-related competition.

Four Regional Classics, followed by National Classic XIX, are on the upcoming calendar of events.

Regional Classics, patterned after the National Classic, are planned at four wide-ranging locations.

"The regional events are located so as to be reasonably available to most of our membership," said Trent Ricksger, the American Junior Simmental Association (AJSA) president from Hubbard, Ore.

"Regional Classics are a great way to meet people and to prepare for the National event," Ricksger explained. "We urge our members to get ready for the National Classic by studying at home and by attending a Regional Classic if they possibly can."

Regional Classics are scheduled as follows: north-central region, June 9-12, Janesville, Wis., western region, June 24-26, Bozeman, Mont., south central region, June 25-27, Tyler, Texas; and eastern region, June 30-July 3, at Timonium, Md.

National Classic XIX, traditionally the highlight of the AJSA year, will be July 19-23 at Hutchinson, Kan. ASA staff members are working closely with the Kansas Simmental Association (KSA) along with staff from Kansas State University and Hutchinson Community College.

Up to 300 AJSA members from 30 states are expected to participate in junior and senior divisions. Competition is held in a variety of cattle-related categories, including a herdsman's quiz; sire summary quiz; beef bowl; public speaking; sales talk; heifer exhibition; showmanship; advertising and promotion; and job interviewing.

More information can be obtained by calling ASA at (406) 587-4531 or by visiting the web site at http://www.simmgene.com. Inquiries can also be emailed to simmental@simmgene.com.

Holstein Field Day Conducted At Snider Farm

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

IMLER (Bedford Co.) — Northern Bedford and Chestnut Ridge FFA clubs and Champmans 4-H Club participated in a Holstein Field Day and judging competition at the Obie Snider farm in April.

Sponsored by the Bedford County Holstein Association, staff from the Bedford County extension office also offered classes on valuable information for the students.

Melanie Barkley gave a talk on farm safety highlighting what should be done in the event of a tractor accident.

Dwayne Hay taught a class on the parts of a cow's stomach. This was met with mixed enthusiasm but all agreed it was informative.

There was also a demonstration on the humane way to trim a cow's hooves.

Placing first in judging competition was Josh Colledge, a senior at Northern Bedford County High School with a total of 142 points.

Emily Steele, a junior at Northern Bedford, had a total of 133 points.

With a total of 131 points, Zach Conley, a junior, Northern Bedford, placed third.

Fourth was Jason Mowry, senior, Northern Bedford, with 129 points.

Frank Simmons, a senior, also from Northern Bedford, was fifth with 128 points.

State Seeks To Eradicate Exotic Alien Weed

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It's called Giant Hogweed, but its description sounds more like science-fiction.

No matter what the name, state officials have declared war on a new weed from Eurasia that has showed up in Pennsylvania.

The state Department of Agriculture this week announced a concerted effort to wipe out early colonies of the huge exotic weed, before it becomes a widespread problem.

According to a news release made this week, state plant specialists from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture are seeking help from local officials and residents in a joint effort to eradicate a large Eurasian weed — Giant Hogweed — that has been discovered in several of the state's northwestern counties.

The weed is described as resembling giagantic wild carrot — it grows from 8 to 14 feet tall; has flower clusters up to 30-inches in diameter; has leaves up to 5 feet long; and has a life span of two to five years.

Not only that, but the sap can cause burning blisters when it gets on sensitive skin and is exposed to the sun. The blisters can be very painful and cause skin discoloration.

State Secretary of Agriculture Samuel E. Hayes Jr. said, "Over the past year, plant specialists have been able to identify approximately 100 locations in Erie, Venango, Crawford, McKean and Warren counties where this plant is growing. Continued efforts will be necessary if we are to ensure that this plant is to be eradicated."

Secretary Hayes said the weed has been officially classified as a 'noxious" weed, criminalizing any attempts to propogate, sell or transport it in the state.

"Pennsylvania's Noxious Weed Control Committee recently voted to add the Gian Hogweed to the state's Noxious Weed List because of its invasive nature and effects on public health," Hayes said.

A toll-free hotline 1-877-464-9333 has been established at the PDA Regional Office in Meadville so that those who discover the weed can alert state officials.

Derr Completes Co-op Director Institute

From the left, state Secretary of Agriculture Samuel E. Hayes Jr. presents a certificate of completion from the Penn State Cooperative Director Institute to Adam Derr, a farmer/director with the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Helping with the presentation is David Blandford, head of the Penn Sate Department of Agriculture Economics and Rural Sociology. Derr recently attended the three-day cooperative leadership seminar where participants are provided an intensive course on directing and managing a cooperative. The seminar included 17 keynote speakers who discussed topics ranging from economic outlook to rules and responsibilities. Pa.DHIA leadership joined in the congratulations to Derr for completing the course and adding to the strength of the cooperative's leadership.

Pennsylvania Ag Spokesperson of the Year Shirley Krall is a firm believer that ag education is best taught on the farm.

Students from the Southeast Elementary School in Lebanon tour the Krall farm to learn about agriculture.

Pennsylvania Ag Spokesperson Of The Year Shares Passion For Farming With Urban Community

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — No matter how well qualified, it isn't that Shirley Krall needs another thing to add to her busy schedule. But, according to the old adage, when something worthwhile needs to be done, ask a busy person.

"I'll take a stab at it," Shirley had answered when asked to enter competition for the Voice of Agriculture sponsored by the Pennsylvania Farmers Association. Her effort at the county level, pushed her on to state competition where she was selected as Pennsylvania Ag Spokesperson of the Year. She will compete at the national level in December during the National Young Farmers Convention.

Shirley did not enter the contest as a claim to fame. She entered to share her deep passion for dairy farming with the uneducated—the people who don't know where food comes from.

"Many children believe food comes from the store. What a scary thought to think that some of these children will be legislating agricultural issues in the future," Shirley said.

For years, she and her husband Tom have been doing what they can to educate urban consumers about the origin of food.

The Kralls started hosting school tours when their oldest son was in kindergarten. Soon they were hosting FFA field trips, and tours for the Pennsylvania Farmers Bureau who hosts groups from other countries.

"Depending on the type of tour, we change the format on what we focus on," Shirley said.

"We want consumers to know that The United States has only two percent of the world's population yet holds two-thirds of the world's wealth," Shirley said.

She also tells guests that George Washington, the first president of the U.S., is reported to have said, "Farming is the root of all being. Without it, nothing can survive."

Shirley challenges other farm families by saying, "We cannot all grow up on family farms, but it is our duty as voices in agriculture to share with our urban neighbors and educate them on where food is coming from. Open your doors of hospitality and reach beyond the farm community. Host an unforgettable field trip and help educate the leaders of tomorrow."

From the voice of experience, Shirley knows how to answer the many questions that the non-farming community throws at her. She rises at 3:30 a.m. everyday to help milk 90 cows. She is in charge of general clean-up, accounting, breeding, and feeding calves.

"We are the Krall Family Farm, and I emphasize family because 90 percent of the workload is done by family members," Shirley said of the picture-perfect 75-acre farm in northern Lebanon County. She, husband Tom, and children Joel, 15; Travis, 14; Marlin, 6; and Louise, 5, hold informal family meetings througout the year to attain goals and refocus.

At one of these meetings, the family devised the following mission statement: "Raise our children in an environment that promotes improvement in our Christian faith, personal creativity, hospitality, health, and good stewardship of property. We will strive to improve our competitive edge through education, modern practices, and ingenuity in hopes to leave this world a better place.

"Our dairy farm operates on the idea of teamwork. Each family member and our consultants are an important vital link in making the farm operation run smoothly," Shirley said.

She brags that Joel and Travis are two unbeatable helpers. They both operate the skid tractor, feed the heifers, and scrape down.

The Kralls purchased the farm in 1987. Although the farm was well-kept with extensive flower beds and rock gardens, it has been remodeled to better serve the Krall family.

When the Kralls first took over the farm, they pushed to get ahead.

"In order to stay in the dairy business, we knew we had to become more efficent in cow numbers, " Shirley said. They increased the herd from 60 cows to 99 milking cows.

They also pushed to accomplish one project a year. With Tom's talent in repair, welding, and creating, and with Shirley's talent for cleaning, breeding, and organizing, the couple make a good team.

In consecutive years, the Kralls completed the following projects: built feed area and feed room, made metal fence for pasture, remodeled milking parlor, remodeled milk house and installed a new milk tank, built a large heifer barn, built a shop and garage, rebuilt a freestall barn and calf barn, built a 104-foot silo, remodeled the house including fixing up the springhouse attached to the house and putting a guest room in the loft, purchased the connecting farm, built a commodity barn and remodeled the bank barn.

The Kralls said they now see how quickly time passes. "We realize our children won't be with us forever and are making an effort to do more relaxing family-type activities," Shirley said.

Shirley tells guests that a farmer's work week is not a typical 40-hour job. Tom and she get up at 3:30 every morning. It takes about two hours to milk and 1½ hours to feed the cows and young heifers. Shirley tries to be back in the house by 6:30 a.m. to see the children off to school. Joel and Travis leave first, usually walking the half-mile lane to catch the bus. Marlin is in kindergarten, and Louise has preschool twice a week.

Tom and Shirley have about six hours between milking to accomplish all other tasks such as equipment repair, general farm upkeep, crop work, bookkeeping, vet checks, house chores, and other home responsibilities.

"Farmers are not night owls," Shirley tells guests. "Since we get up early in the morning, we try to be in bed by 8 p.m."

That doesn't mean the Kralls get uninterrupted sleep. A baby monitor in their bedroom is hooked up to the maternity pens in the barn. Cows calf on a daily basis throughout the year any time of the day and night.

"It is not unusual at one o'clock in the morning to hear the groans of birthing. That means jumping out of bed to make sure all is well or to assist with the birthing process."

"We have no sick days. Cows must be milked twice a day every day," Shirley tells visitors.

That's the drawback about living on a family-operated farm — it's difficult to get away. That is one of the reasons the Kralls open their farm to others. It's a chance to interact with people from many different backgrounds. Last year, their farm was one of the farms included in the Lebanon County Farm-City tour. In the fall, the Kralls host barn parties and offer hayrides for both church youth groups and for farm groups.

They do have a few activities off the farm. Tom and Shirley were formerly a Land O' Lakes Young Cooperative Couple. They are active in church and Shirley helps with the cherub choir and is a Sunday School teacher. Tom is a senior choir member.

School tours are always requested during the months of April and May, some of the busiest months for farmers.

"But children and teachers appreciate visiting the farm so much that we enjoy sharing it even if we are busy," Shirley said.

(Turn to Page B3)

Five-year-old Louise Krall is often accompanied by her two favorite animals on the farm

Typical of comments is this one from a six-year-old boy, "This is the most awesome trip I have ever been on! Can I come back again?"

The Milk Council is a great source of information to help with tours. They send out school kits that include a video for the teacher to show the children before they visit.

"This way the children are already familiar with the farm," Shirley said.

Although the Krall farm is a specialized dairy farm, they do have a melange of animals such as chickens, a rooster, a pygmy goat, and a llama on their farm. They also borrow miniature horses during the tour for the children to ride.

Ironically it was the farm tours that provided the winning edge for Shirley during the competition for Ag Spokesperson of the year. For the event, Shirley had to prepare a five minute speech on ag-related issues that concern the farming and urban communities.

It was difficult to decide direction, but the adviser for the Cedar Crest Young Farmers suggested Shirley give tips on hosting field trips. At the state convention held in February, Shirley gave her prepared speech in front of judges and members of the organization and answered impromptu questions about ag-related issues for 10 minutes.

Shirley did not know who had won the contest at the evening banquet, where contestants again gave prepared speeches before she was announced as winner.

Shirley doesn't consider herself a public speaker. "In high school, I got so nervous about speaking in front of a group, that my teacher really worked a lot with me to help me overcome fear. Now, if I truely believe in something, it's heartfelt and flows naturally," she said.

Shirley uses her hands a lot when she talks. She exudes a vibrancy when discussing things she loves such as farming.

She said, "Every so often when the rising sun just peaks over the horizon, when the rays fall on the grass that is glistening with dew, you quietly listen to the bawling of a newborn calf and hear the pulsating of the milkers. You can hear me faintly humming a tune, Green Acres is the place to be. Farm living is the life for me. Land spreading out. . . . Just give that countryside."

Shirley Krall is in charge of the farm records.

State's Largest Dairy County Needs Dairy Royalty

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Dairy royalty is needed to represent the largest group of dairy farmers in the state and to promote the quality product they produce.

Lancaster County is nationally the eighth highest county in production of milk at 1,786,000,000 pounds annually, with approximately 96,000 head of dairy cattle.

No other Pennsylvania counties rank in the top 20. In fact, no other counties east of the Mississippi River rank in the top 15 nationally.

Lancaster County's Dairy Promotion Committee is searching for new candidates for dairy princesses, ambassadors and dairy darlings to serve for one year, beginning after the June pageant. Princess candidates can be any single woman between 16-24 years of age, never married, whose parents or guardians are engaged in dairy farming or are employed in a dairy related industry. Eligibility is also extended to young women who are owners of at least two animals of the six major breeds in a bona fide 4-H or FFA project prior to May 1, 1999.

Candidates who are not 16 or aren't connected with dairy farming but have a sincere desire to promote dairy products, and are a user of real dairy products, can serve as dairy ambassadors. Ambassadors must be at least 13 years old and can be male or female Openings for Dairy Darlings, at least 8 years old, are needed to assist our princesses and ambassadors at promotions.

More committee members are also needed. A genuine interest in promoting milk is the first and foremost requirement. Even if involvement is limited to helping with the Milk Wagon at fundraising events, assisting only with the pageant, or just helping supervise promotions, input is needed and appreciated.

The Dairy Pageant will be held June 12, 7 p.m. at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. Call Dale Smith at (717) 336-0553 or Jamie Horning at (717) 336-4364 for more information about promoting the dairy industry.

Achieving the "Grand" in Grandparenting

What memories do you have of your grandparents?

I remember looking forward to Thanksgiving dinner with all the relatives at my maternal grandparents' house and occasional Sunday drives to visit my maternal grandparents who lived further away. I remember waiting with great anticipation for my grandparents' return home after spending winters in Florida, the excitement of the day of their arrival and the special treats, such as oranges or fresh coconut, that they would bring. I could always count on Granddad to quickly pull those loose baby teeth that were reluctant to fall out. They were important influences in my life, and the "grand" memories of them live on in my heart.

Today there are more than 55 million grandparents in America. Our society has more grandparent-aged persons than active parents. If you are in this grandparent-age category, you may be looking forward to becoming a grandparent. Maybe you are already a grandparent, a surrogate grandparent or even a great-grandparent!

Ask yourself, "What roles do I play as a grandparent?" "What roles do I play in the eyes of my grandchildren or their parents?"

In his book, "The Seven Habits of Highly Effective Families," author Steven Covey notes that grandparents and other extended family members can have a very positive influence on the family. However, the results of a recent research study on grandparenting indicated that more than half of the grandparents were not maximizing their role as grandparents.

I conducted an informal survey with some grandparents I know to learn what roles they play as grandparents. Their responses to the first question included caregiver, playmate, helper, counselor, nurturer, provider, and teacher. These persons described being a grandparent as being one of the highlights of their life, talked about having lots of fun doing activities with their grandchildren and had lots of stories and pictures to share. What were your responses?

I'd like to hear from you about the roles you play.

Maybe you fit into the category of grandparents who believe that since your children are grown and have families of their own, your job as a parent is done. You are very interested and concerned about your grandchildren, but you keep it at a distance. Perhaps your contact with your grandchildren is even less frequent and limited to birthdays, holidays, or other special occasions. If you're in this role, I encourage you to take Covey's suggestion not to "retire" from the family. Look for ways you can support and affirm your adult children in their roles as parents and give that special love to your grandchildren that only a grandparent can give and develop a plan to achieve your "grand" in grandparenting.

Here are some suggestions you can use to help maximize your potential as a grandparent. First, become proactive. Develop a positive attitude about your role as a grandparent. Be optimistic about the positive influence you can have on your grandchildren and take steps to achieve the "grand."

Second, communicate with grandchildren through letters, audio tapes, video tapes, phone calls, visits, and e-mail. Children need good listeners, someone they can trust, who is willing to take the time to listen to their feelings and try to understand them. Talk with them about their interests and find out what is important to them. Notice things that you like about them and share this with them. Tell them how special they are to you. Remember to include lots of hugs!

Next, do things together on a regular basis. You will want to plan some activities that involve extended family members as well. You may want to start a family tradition of sharing a day or evening together on a regular basis, such as once a month.

Learn something new with your grandchildren by taking a class together or reading a book together. Let your grandchild teach you something new, such as how to use a computer. If you have a special skill or hobby, you might share it with your grandchildren.

My grandchildren became very eager to learn more about gemstones after seeing their great-grandfather's rock collection during a recent visit. Digging for rocks in the back yard was a highlight of their visit and each returned home proudly with their own mini-collection and fond memories of their great-grandfather.

Invite your grandchildren to stay overnight once a month without their parents. Busy parents will probably appreciate a chance to go out without the children or just spend a quiet evening at home! If grandchildren are separated by distance, invite them for a mini-vacation.

If you're not in the grandparent age-group, but are a parent or interested citizen in the community, you can also play an important role in encouraging the development of grandparent-grandchild relationships. You might organize community activities and events that bring young persons together with grandparents. One of the highlights for me as a grandparent is to attend Grandparent's Day organized once a year by the staff at my grandchildren's elementary school. Grandparents and surrogate grandparents are invited to visit their grandchild's classroom. The teachers work with the children to prepare presentations for the grandparents.

If you would like more ideas of things to do with your grandchildren, contact your county extension family living agent and request the publications "Family Time" or "101 Ways to Keep Kids Busy." Ask what other information may be available for grandparents to help them achieve their "grand."

So there I was, innocently doing my everyday, evening calf feeding.

Colored clouds floated in the chilly sky, changing shades as the sun eased down behind the hill. This sunset view from the calf barn window is always a peaceful, spiritual booster near the end of our ever-busy days.

Suddenly, with no warning, a hot, stinging sensation seared into the side of my neck.

Stung!

But by what?

I sped around the corner to where recent rains had left traces of mud on the pavement and slapped a fingerful of the stuff on the stinging welt that was already swelling. Its coolness eased the burning sting a bit, as I mulled over the puzzle.

Not an insect in sight. Not inside the calf nursery. Not outside. Not even a fly.

During the warmer previous evening, several pudgy bumble bees had hovered around as I fed calves in one outside pen. Puzzled by their persistence, I'd studied the pen from a distance to see where in the metal-covered shelter, with its high-fronted roof that slopes downward toward the back, the bumble bees might be sheltering.

It took a while to notice the couple of tiny circles in the two-by-four to which the metal was fastened near the top front, about seven feet above the ground. It was into those circles, no wider than the thickness of my little finger, that the bees were disappearing. Apparently, they had bored the tiny openings through the wood and were homesteading in the narrow space between it and the corrugated roofing.

OK, we can deal with that, I'd figured. Next cool evening, when the bees were hunkering close to home, I'd get the bee and wasp aerosol spray can and zap 'em. No need to endure the constant dive-bombing.

Logical conclusion was that one of the bumbles bees had beaten me to the punch.

A few minutes later, I headed to the house for step-two in the bee-sting treatment routine. Meat tenderizer.

The enzyme in the brand of meat tenderizer in our kitchen cupboard – made from pineapple, according to the label – does its job by breaking down the meat tissue. For whatever reason, the chemical reaction also seems to counter the irritants in an insect sting, relieving the pain and swelling.

A glance in the bathroom mirror showed the nasty, red sting site, about three-quarters of an inch across, with the telltale dot in the center marking ground zero. It was then that I noticed something fly past my face and toward the ceiling.

A huge wasp.

Mystery solved. Apparently the nasty "bug" had still been clinging to my fuzzy turtleneck sweater; luckily it hadn't nailed me a second time. I scrubbed off the muddy residue from the sting and replaced it with dabs of the powdery meat tenderizer. And grimaced at the ugly, swelling, red welt, which would no doubt be noticeable for awhile.

But barely two hours later, the swelling was completely gone. And there was no sting pain.

This tale is related as a reminder. Warm weather is coming, and with it, greater potential for insect encounters. If you're stung, instantly apply mud. Make it from saliva and soil from a houseplant, if necessary. And as quickly as possible, apply meat tenderizer. Keep it in your first aid kit, your kitchen, your automobile. If you are allergic to stings, however, first dash for your anti-swelling medication. Then activate the mud and meat tenderizer.

Next day I took down the bathroom curtains to launder them, anticipating finding the wasp, which had eluded the fly swatter I'd grabbed from the closet. Instead, I found a curtain rod covered with the ants which had begun invading the house. Maybe they snagged the wasp for lunch.

Can we hope this was just coincidence, and not the early scouts for an invasion by summer's bug battalions?

Mother's Day Tribute To Good Cooks

Today's collection of recipes serve as a tribute to mothers and grandmothers everywhere.

It's mothers and grandmothers who most often prepare favorite meals and pass on treasured recipes. The memory of a favorite pie "just like Grandma used to make" is often a much sought after request for adults in their later years. Oft-times, exact measurements for these recipes were elusive, and today's cooks often labor intensively trying to recreate a recipe recalled from childhood.

Perhaps you have a story similiar to Linda Boyer of Narvon. She writes that her mother Ruth B. Lambert, passed away in Feb. 1992. She came from a long line of German cooks and bakers. Her Grandma Mint was a great cook who never spoke English and brought many recipes straight from the old country.

Linda writes: "My Grandma' Mint's pie recipe was never written down. Through trial and error, my mother and I tried to duplicate the pie, but we couldn't get the right combination."

Ironically, the week her mother died, Linda got the recipe right.

"But mother never got to taste her beloved favorite pie," Linda wrote of the bittersweet achievement.

Instead, Linda shares the recipe so that all of us can enjoy it.

Thanks to the other contributers who shared family recipes.

It's a great mother's day tribute to these mothers and grandmothers, both those living and those how died, who pass on a legacy of good cooking.

Happy Mother's Day.

MOM'S MEATLOAF

2 beaten eggs
3 pounds ground beef
¾ cup oatmeal
½ cup ketchup
¾ cup tomato juice
¼ cup milk
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Onions (as preferred)

Mix together all ingredients thoroughly. Bake 1½ hours in a 350 degree oven.

This is how my mother taught me to make meatloaf. She spends a lot of time planting garden and preparing food for her family.

Have a happy Mother's Day!

Lena Burkholder

CREAM OF POTATO SOUP

10-12 large potatoes, peeled, diced
2 medium chopped onions
3-4 stalks finely chopped celery
2 teaspoons chicken bouillon
1 stick butter
2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1 can evaporated milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Dumplings:
1 egg
Flour

Cover potatoes, celery, and onion with water in a soup pot. Boil until potatoes are tender. Do not drain. Using a large spoon or potato masher, mash some of the potatoes against the side of the pot to thicken the soup. Add chicken bouillon, butter, parsley, and evaporated milk. Taste before adding salt and pepper. Over medium heat, bring temperature of soup to as warm as you can without boiling. At this time, add small dumplings, which consists of one beaten egg and as much flour as necessary to make a coarse mixture. We rub the dough between our fingers to make small dumplings. Turn heat very low. Leave on heat for 30-60 minutes, stirring frequently. We usually make the soup ahead of time, cover, and turn off the heat. This allows the soup to thicken. Reheat on low to serve.

This recipes has been a favorite of our family for many years. My grandmother, Anna Savage, and my mother, Joanne Custer, have made this recipe for as long as I can remember.

BOB'S BAKED BEANS

Saute together:
4 slices bacon, diced
1 large onion, chopped
Add 1 pint canned tomatoes, mashed
Cook 10 minutes. Add
1 tall can Grandma's beans
½ cup molasses
1 teaspoon mustard

Bake in a large casserole dish at 325 degrees for two hours. Add 1 pound hot dogs, whole or cut up, on top for last half hour.

My mother Elsie Van Orden was a cooperative extension home economist. She got this recipe, from a widowed colleague, Bob Tously of Columbia County, N.Y. It tastes like beans that have been slaved over for hours.

QUESTION — Carrie Sponseller, Gettysburg, would like a recipe for Snow Flake Cookie mix in a jar. It includes white chocolate chips and macadamia nuts that are layered in a quart jar.

QUESTION — A reader, who has a Whisper Mill Grain Grinder, would like some other readers' favorite recipes using fresh ground flour such as barley, rice, spelt, rye, etc. She would like ideas to include a variety of grains in the family's diet instead of wheat, wheat, and wheat.

My mom likes to help me at dairy promotions. We do a lot of things together. One of the ways I help mom is by looking for real dairy products. Most of which contain the real seal, (which reminds people that real milk was used and not fake).

We like to see who is frist to find the real seal and how many we can find. Then I like to help measure and mix everything. I hope you enjoy mom's cake as much as dad and I do.

My mother, Ruth B. Lambert, passed away in Feb. 1992. She came from a long line of German cooks and bakers. Her Grandma Mint was a great cook who never spoke English and brought many recipes straight from the old country. Here is the recipe for my mother's meatloaf, simple but delicious.

My Grandma' Mint's pie recipe was never written down. Through trial and error, my mother and I tried to duplicate the pie, but couldn't get the right combination. The week my mother died, I got the recipe right, but mother never got to taste her beloved favorite pie. Instead, I can share it with all of you.

QUESTION — Several years ago, J. Rouse clipped a recipe from this section for maple syrup pork chops. Her family loves the recipe, but she lost it. Anyone else clip the recipe? Send it in so we can reprint it.

QUESTION — Ben S. Stoltzfus, Honey Brook, would like a recipe bran muffins that tastes like the Sara Lee brand.

QUESTION — Lester Horvath, Washington, N.J., would like a recipe for hot pickled ring bologna.

QUESTION — Madeline Raub, Easton, would like to know where to buy a round biscuit shaped like a basket with a fluted edge. She thinks the biscuits had been made by Nabisco and sold loose by the pound. Her mother used them at Easter to make "bird nests" by putting icing inside and colored jelly beans.

QUESTION — Lynn Rossi, Lititz, would like a recipe for marinated mushrooms, which are made without cooking oil and sold by S. Clyde Weaver, East Petersburg.

QUESTION — Mrs. Dale Burkhart, Narvon, misplaced a recipe for a seasoning mixture to rub into beef roast before roasting. She recalls that some of the ingredients included instant coffee granules, beef bouillion, salt and pepper.

ANSWER — Luella Staver, Red Lion, wanted to know how to make crisp dill pickles. Thanks to many readers for sending recipes. Here is one from Barbara Randall, Bloomfield, N.Y.

Crisp Dill Pickles

In sterile quart jars, place the following:
2 heads fresh dill
1 clove garlic, peeled
⅛ teaspoon alum
1 grape leaf (from wild grapevines)

Pack small cucumbers cut lengthwise in jars as tightly as possible.

(Turn to Page B9)

Cook's Question

To make brine, bring to a boil:
1 cup coarse salt
3 quarts water
1 quart cider vinegar

Pour mixture over cucumbers to within ¼ -inch from top of jars. Seal and process 5 minutes in boiling water bath. The alum and grape leaves make these crisp.

ANSWER — Thanks to Alverna Martin, Wellsoboro, for sending in a recipe requested by Diane McDonald. Alverna writes that there are many different variations of potato soup. Other veggies, meat, and seasonings can be added to the following recipe.

Polka Dot Chowder

4 medium potatoes
1⅔ cup rich milk
2 cups creamed corn
1 tablespoon butter
1 medium onion
Sliced wieners

Cook peeled and diced potatoes in a bit of salt water until tender. Add milk and corn. Stir and cook 5 minutes over low heat. Saute onion in melted butter. Add to soup with weiners. Heat again and serve.

Note: This is a pretty basic recipe. The corn and wieners can be omitted. Chopped celery can be added to sauteing.

My mother used to add hard-cooked chopped eggs to the soup the last five minutes. Now I break several eggs into boiling potatoes. After the eggs are hard-cooked, cut through them with a table knife just before adding the milk.

ANSWER — Here are some more cracker recipes that Ruthie Fisher, Mifflin, had requested. These are from Alverna Martin, Wellsboro.

Soda Crackers

Makes about ½ -pound. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Combine in a bowl:
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking soda
Cut in 2 tablespoons margarine
Stir in ⅔ cup sour milk or buttermilk

Form dough into ball and knead a few strokes. Divide dough into several pieces and roll out very thin on a floured board. Lay sheets of dough on ungreased flat baking pans. Sprinkle with salt and prick with fork. Cut into 1½ -inch squares with sharp knife or pizza cutter. Bake 10-12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Wheat Crackers

Combine in a bowl: 3 cups white flour
1 cup wheat flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt

Cut in ¾ cup margarine. Beat lightly: 1 egg. Pour egg into 1 cup measure and add enough milk to make one cup liquid. Form ball with dough. Knead lightly, about 20 strokes. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Divide dough into four parts. Follow above recipe for rolling and cutting. Bake 7-10 minutes or until lightly browned.

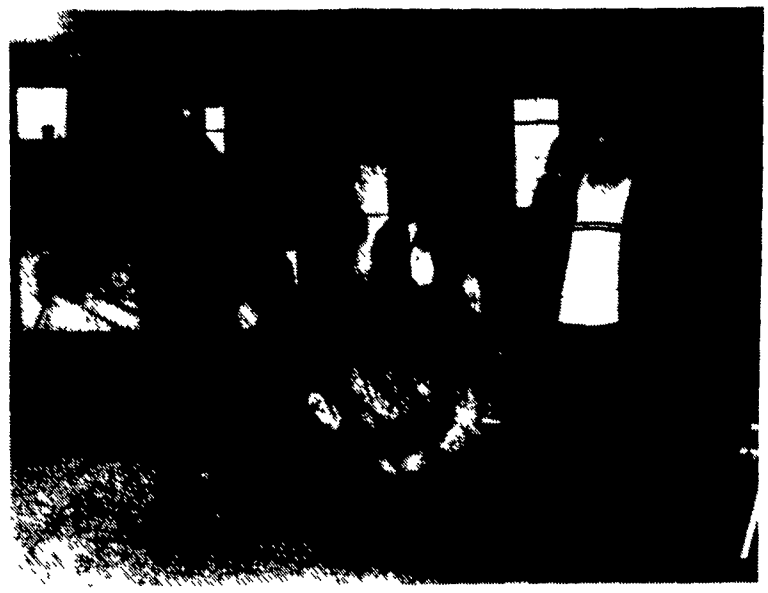
Kids Korner

Students hurry from session to session held in different areas of the Krails red barns.



Pouring rain did not prevent the children from having fun on the farm. Here Tom Krall, left, with the help of a parent leads a miniature pony with a rider around the interior of the Krails' garage.

A Day On The Krall Family Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — About 250 children treked through the Krall Family Farm on a recent rainy Friday.

The weather didn't dampen the fun the four- to six-year-olds from Southeast Elementary School had. In between drenching downpours, the children hurried outside to see the calves in the outdoor pens.

The children even got rides on miniature ponies. Plans needed to be adjusted a bit. Instead of outdoor rides, Farmer Tom Krall led the ponies and their riders around the spacious garage on the property.

Tom's wife Shirley showed the children the milking parlor where they milk 10 cows at one time. She turned on the milking system so that the children could put their fingers at the hose nozzles and feel the slight pressure cows feel when being milked.

"A cow gives 100 glasses of milk at one milking," Shirley said.

Sometimes cows become sick just like children do. Shirley showed them the six large pills cows need to take when sick.

The children gasped at the size of the pills. Who could swallow such monster-sized pills?

Shirley showed the students a pill shooter used to insert the pills in the right spot since the cows have four stomachs.

Each cow wears an ear tag—sort of like an earring, Shirley explained.

Although the children might have thought of the visit as just a fun day to get away from the classroom, Shirley and Tom made sure the children learned a lot of farm facts. Here are some of them:

FARM FACTS

1. A newborn calf weighs approximately 100 pounds.

2. A cow has four stomachs. The one stomach can twist causing the cow to go off feed or even die.

3. In 1952 farmers received one half of the consumer's dollar. Today 22 cents of every dollar the consumer spends on food ends up going back to the farmer who produced the raw product.

4. A cow drinks 25 to 50 gallons of water a day.

5. 90% of milk is water. The other 10% is made up of butterfat, lactose, and proteins along with calcium and phosphorous.

6. Cows have no upper teeth.

7. A cow is a ruminant animal. They regurgitate their food, bring it back up into their mouth again. The chewing actions allow the feed to be broken down so the cow can use it to produce milk.

8. A magnet is put into a cow's stomach to catch small pieces of metal which she may have eaten.

9. In 1950 milk was the beverage of choice. Today cheese is the number one product processed from milk.

10. Farmers get graded by inspectors, which show up unannounced through the milk company. All farms have federal inspection, once a year.

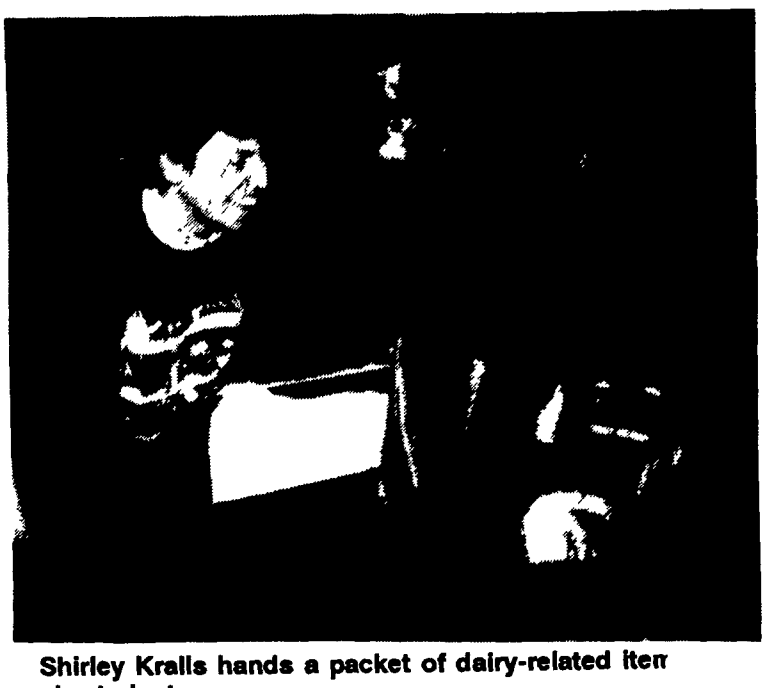
11. A female cow will not produce milk until she has her first calf.

12. Headlocks are used on many farms to comfortably restrict the movement of the cow in order to give medication or check for pregnancy.

13. Artificial insemination is widely used among dairymen to breed cows. Bull studs are sold to semen cooperatives. The result is the availability of superior genetics to all farmers.

14. Heifer is a term used for a female cow that did not have a calf.

Louise Krall is happy to live on a farm. When she isn't outside enjoying the animals she likes to color.



Shirley Krails hands a packet of dairy-related iten each student.

Backyard Roosting

HACKETTSTOWN, N.J. – Birds or bats, butterflies or bees–no not things in your "belfry," but in your backyard. you would be amazed what you can attract sometimes with just a little help from Mother Nature and your garage. First, you have to decide what you want residing in your outdoor space. The types of plants you use for food and ground cover will help determine the wildlife species you attract.

One of the easiest creatures to attract is birds and the easiest way is through the type of vegetations you select. Common shrubs would be the Juniper and hollies; examples of trees would be the American beech, the Balsam fir, and oaks; vines such as the American bittersweet and native honeysuckle; even flowers such as coneflowers and sunflowers do the trick.

Providing shelter and additional food for birds (like seed, fruit, and corn cobs) are other ways to bring them to your home. Many species can be attracted by a variety offered in different styles of feeders, but sometimes species that you don't want such as starlings, crows, and squirrels are liable to come too.

By proper feeder placement and food selection, intruders can be cut down to a minimum. For example, if you pick a spot near a considerable amount of activity, chances are you won't get much Tree groves and quiet backyards are more favorable Another important detail is the size of the hole in the birdhouse. This item is the most crucial point because it prevents the eggs and the young from being destroyed by larger birds.

If you're in the market for insects, there are about 5,000 different species of native bees in the United States almost all of them solitary and friendly. The reason for this is because they don't have hives to protect. They nest in holes in the ground or burrows in twigs and dead tree limbs (i.e. bumblebees, carpenter bees, sweat bees, etc.) About 30 percent of the human diet is the direct result of a pollinating visit by a bee to a flowering fruit tree or vegetable plant. By providing bee habitat, you can increase the quality and quantity of your harvests.

Consider a bat habitat? Think of them as nature's bugzapper Bats can be beneficial and interesting to watch in your neighborhood Bats are among the most important consumers of night-flying insects, including mosquitoes, moths, and beetles. For example, a single little brown bat can catch more than 600 mosquitios in an hour. If you are interested, provide a bat house on a pole or building at least 15 feet high that receives six or more hours of sun per day. As with all wildlife, bats should be watched and not handled or chased. Bats are generally shy in nature, but if they feel threatened, they may bite in self-defense.

If you have any further questions about creating this outdoor habitat, contact the Warren County Soil Conservation District at (908) 852-2579.

Joan Rapp from the Garden Angel Tea Room prepares a table for tea.

Seminar Addresses Women's Interests

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — A day filled with fabulous food, decorating and entertaining ideas, and health and fitness know-how drew more than 200 women to the Spring Awareness Day sponsored by Berks County Cooperative Extension last week.

The annual day is designed to meet the needs of women.

Spring Entertaining

Joan Rapp, from the Garden Angel Tea Room located at The Iron Porch Bed and Breakfast, Blandon, showed how easy it is to set a table by using things around the home. She suggested taking uncut fabric, a sheet, quilt, or linens to drape over the table. Top with a lace tablecloth or square of coordinating fabric. Rapp intertwined ivy and ribbon to form a garland to drape in front of a buffet table. An ivy leaf was also placed on top of each napkin.

China and crystal no longer needs to match, she said.

For sit-down meals, the table centerpiece should not be higher than 18 inches, but for buffet meals, a large bouquet of flowers can be set on a stand to add height and depth to the arrangement. Another idea for a centerpiece is to use a collection of angels or other items around the house.

Rapp added a dramatic touch to the table by setting votive candles at each place setting. She keeps her eyes open for unique touches to add to table settings such as small doilies draped over glasses. These were used during the victorian era to keep flies out of sweetened beverages.

A lamp can be used as a table centerpiece by running the electrical cord up the leg of the table. Tape the cord to the leg than cover the cord with a cloth cover.

. Tea Sandwich Ideas

Pinwheel sandwich: Use a loaf of fresh, fine-grained sandwich bread. Remove crust from all sides except the bottom to give firmness. Cut thin slices lengthwise, trim crust and spread with filling or cheese spread. Lay the slices on the table and roll away from you. Make first turn very small and roll very tight. Wrap roll in plastic wrap and chill 30 minutes, or until ready to cut. Cut rolls in slices ¼ -inch thick. Bread may be rolled around very thin, sweet pickles or olives and when sliced, the sandwich will have a slice of olive or pickle in the center. If bread tends to break when rolling, place slice on damp cloth until it becomes slightly moist.

Barbara Mills leads the audience in Body Recall.

Rainbow sandwich: Cut bread in long lengthwise slices as for pinwheel sandwich. Spread slices thinly with butter. Use different fillings, preferably of different colors. Spread one filling crosswise on the slice; leave a space without filling; add the next filling spreading crosswise; leave a space and add the last filling. Roll, wrap, and chill. Cut slices ¼ -inch thick.

Ribbon sandwich: Remove crust as directed under pinwheel sandwiches, and cut lengthwise into 3 or 4 layers. Use one layer of white bread between two layers of whole wheat or rye. Spread butter or a cheese filling between layers. Wrap and press under a weight while chilling. Cut into ¼ -inch slices just before serving.

Checkerboard Sandwich: Cut four slices each of whole wheat or rye and white bread ½ -inch thick. Remove crust and spread a slice of white bread with creamed butter or softened cheese mixture, and place a slice of dark bread next. Spread this with mixture; place on it a slice of white bread; cover with mixture and place on dark slice. Alternate white and dark bread.

Trim each pile evenly and cut into ½ -inch strips. Spread strips with creamed mixture and put together in such a way that white strip will alternate with dark one, forming a checkerboard at the ends. Wrap in waxed paper, chill, and slice ¼ -inch thick when ready to serve.

Rapp gave the history of tea and 19 rules for making the perfect pot of tea.

Home Decor

A session on decorating ideas for spring was demonstrated by Calico Corners, 601 E. Lancaster Ave., Shillington.

A duo of decorators fascinated the audience by demonstrating easy window treatments created with unsewn fabric. In some instances the material was draped and combined with sheer or coordinating fabric. Rubber bands were used to create puffs.

An audience pleaser, was a window treatment with reversible fabric that can be simply switched from season to season.

When decorating a room, Mary Jane Friday, said, "Start with items you love. Decorating is a process of mixing, matching, and layering."

When accenting a pattern, select the color that is shown least in the fabric to give it a finished look.

Color can be added to a room by stitching covers for throw pillows. Lots of pillows are the in look now.

Patterns can be mixed. When combining prints, used a large, a medium, and a small scale print in the same colors.

One doesn't need to buy new furniture to change the look of a room. Drape a round occasional table with fabric, cover a chair cushion with fabric or with slipcovers.

Calico Corners has more than 1,000 bolts of fabrics, lots of displays, instructions for projects, and design consultants to help.

Healthy, Happy Feet

Dr. Joseph C. Smith, podiatrist with the Berks Foot and Ankle Surgical Associates Inc., gave an informative talk on how to take care of common foot problems to prevent severe complications.

Smith said there are 28 bones in each foot and if not lined up properly will cause problems.

"The foot is like any architectural building, which depends upon the strength of the foundation," Smith said.

The foot also serves as a mirror to an idividual's health. Diabetes, arthritis, and circulatory problems often cause symptoms in the feet.

For more information on foot care, contact Smith at (610) 796-9522.

Body Recall

Barbara Mills led the audience in a series of exercises called Body Recall, a safe, tested program of gentle exercise and movement developed for the living longer generation.

The exercises were developed for older people to recall the body's health through exercises, which are slow, deliberate, and easy to do for all ages. While the exercises seem simple, they are designed to massage blood vessels to aid circulation and provide oxygen to every vertebrae and muscle in the body.

After participating in the exercises, many in the audience expressed amazement that they felt energized.

Mills told of several older participants who after a series of classes can now do things that they never thought possible.

More information on Body Recall is available at Wyomissing Nursing and Rehab Center (610) 376-3991, ext. 20.

"Today's busy woman doesn't have time to attend meetings on an individual subject, but combine all the subjects into one day, and the women come," said Fay Strickler, extension home economist, about the popularity of the annual Spring Awareness Day.

Planning the Spring Awareness Day are, from left, Doris Fister, Sylvia Udegrove, Marie Maly, Greta Scully, Fay Strickler, and Marilyn Hensley.

Design consultants from Calico Corners, Mary Jane Friday and Mr. Italo, share decorating tips for contemporary, vintage, and romantic decor.

This is the same room as above. Design consultants show how easily window treatments, slipcovers, and table toppers can give a room a whole new look.

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

When I get up in the morning and look out the windows, and we have lots of them, I can see a variety of things. This morning toward the south, I saw not only the Conestoga River across the meadow but a young groundhog that lives too close to our garden, a garden that needs hoeing, and along iris bed with weeds.

To the west is a building development where children were waiting for the school bus. But nearer to the house was a pair of bluebirds that are building a nest in the birdhouses that Allen built a few years ago.

To the north is the road and the fields that our son sprayed to plant corn. The rye has died and is a sick yellow color. Our dogwood tree and the weeping cherry are blooming as are the white tulips with pink edges that bloom at the foot of the mailbox.

One more direction is the east side of our house that is built against a hill. My husband has teraced some flower beds for me and here the day lilies are growing. There is also a bed of new iris and one of new dwarf dahlias. On top of the hill are the fruit trees and raspberries. There are red ones, black ones and even yellow ones. First the apricots bloomed, then the peach, cherry and pear and last of all the quince.

My husband is interested in helping to develop an American chestnut as a blight in the early 1900s destroyed the chestnuts all over the country. It will take years to cross pollinate with the Chinese chestnut, which is blight free, to develop a blight-free American chestnut.

So, on Sunday we tramped the hills of Martic Township in Lancaster County again, to hunt for sprouts that may have sprung up from old stumps. I spent some time simply sitting along a small stream that gurgled over rocks. We saw no forest animals only hoof prints of deer.

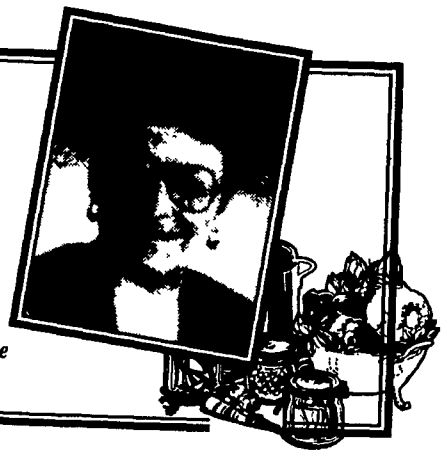
Consuming Thoughts

by

Fay Strickler

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Celebrate the coming of summer with strawberries? This luscious, heart-shaped berry is available from early February through late summer, but the best berries are generally found from late May through mid July. The fruit is so naturally sweet, fragrant and satisfying to eat. You can enjoy them whole or prepared into delicious, dreamy desserts, salads or beverages.

Strawberries contain healthful benefits along with good taste. They are high in vitamin C, which is an antioxidant. Many studies have linked antioxidents to being helpful in preventing the risk of cancer.

Strawberries also contribute iron and fiber to our diet, and they are very low in sodium. One cup of whole strawberries has just 45 calories, so dieters, can enjoy their natural sweetness often.

When you buy fresh strawberries, choose fruit that is fresh, clean and bright red, with green caps attached. Avoid choosing strawberries with white shoulders. These berries are under-ripe and will not ripen or sweeten during storage. Strawberries should be stored in the refrigerator, caps attached, or until ready to use. Rinse gently just before preparing and use fresh strawberries as soon as possible for maximum freshness.

When purchasing or picking a quart of berries you can expect to have about 3 cups of sliced berries which will make about 8 servings.

Plain or fancy, fresh strawberries are wonderful to eat. Here are some great ideas;

• Awaken your tastebuds with fresh strawberry pancakes for breakfast. Fill layers of hot pancakes with fresh strawberry slices. Top with more strawberry slices and a dusting of confectioner's sugar.

• Whirl sliced strawberries, milk and a dash of sugar in the blender for a healthful drink. For a drinkable dessert, make a fresh strawberry float! Whip up strawberries, milk and ice cream in the blender, pour into a glass and garnish with fresh strawberries.

• Fresh strawberries add bright color, sweet taste and texture to fresh fruit salads and compotes.

• For a light lunch, mix freshly sliced strawberries into plain yogurt or cottage cheese.

• Add glorious color to puddings, custards, ice cream, pound cake or any dessert with fresh strawberry sauce. Combine 1 pint strawberries with 1/3 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon fresh lemon or lime juice. Puree the mixture and chill it before serving.

• Strawberry shortcake is an American tradition and easy to make. Just top shortcake with light whipped cream and sliced fresh strawberries.

• Serve an easy and elegant dessert – fresh strawberries in champagne or sparkling cider!

• Dip whole, rinsed strawberries in melted chocolate, then place on waxed paper and chill until chocolate sets. Serve as an easy dessert or party treat.

• Whip fresh strawberries into chiffon pie filling for festive flavor.

• For a special salad, roll berries in sugar and sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Place on a bed of lettuce and top with a dollop of sour cream or yogurt.

Add crushed strawberries to fresh lemonade/limeade for sweet flavor and pink color.

Strawberries as a garnish – Strawberry Fans: pick a large strawberries with a nice stem and cut into it lengthwise making as many thin slices as possible. Fan out by pressing the strawberry lightly at an angle. Use the strawberry fans to garnish any dessert.

Rejection Hurts!

Were you ever the kid who was taunted, left out, ridiculed for the clothes you were wearing?

I was.

Rejection hurts! And peer rejection can be particularly painful. My heart cries for the student who faces this day-in and day-out at school, on the bus, or on the street.

Survival for many kids is to say (and maybe to start to believe) that "I don't care what you say. I don't care about you." But all kids need people to care about them, to miss them, to notice them, and encourage them!

The Columbine High School murders have us all struggling with questions about teens, families, and community safety. Although there are no easy answers, we must take time to discuss the issue. Sadly, those murders could have taken place in any town in our country.

We, adults, can take specific steps to increase the chances that a similar act won't happen in our community. Those steps are not easy, one-time steps. They are lifetime risks and commitments to children and to the "scary" teens that they sometimes become during adolescence.

Parents have a crucial role to play with their own children. The Search Institute, a national organization supporting families and communities comments, "Virtually every parent wants to do a good job of parenting their children and adolescents. But sometimes it's difficult to know what kids need and how best to meet those needs. Are kids too busy or not busy enough? Is what they're doing normal, or should I be concerned?"

Answers to these tough questions can't be determined without talking to your children. Time studies show that parent-child interactions decrease from infancy through preschool and elementary school. This trend continues as parents slowly disconnect from their teens. It's a tough trend to buck because teens are constantly giving the message, "Leave me alone. I want my independence." Yes, teens are developing and should be developing independence, but that doesn't mean they don't need and long for parents' support, love, and guidance."

And it's not unusual for the kids who are hurting to put on an "extra tough" facade. Parents, hang in there. Keep saying, "I'm available if you want to talk." Ask them questions. Because of the Columbine tragedy, you now have a great opening to talk about schools and outcasts. Ask: Who are the outcasts? Why? Do you ever feel like an outcast? What do people do/say? Who are the "safe" friends you can confide in? Who are the "safe" adults you can talk with? And then listen, listen, listen to their responses.

Keep two things in mind — first all feelings, even negative ones, are OK. (How a person responds to those feelings is what needs to be shaped.) It's crucial to not flush the unpleasant/uncomfortable feelings away.

Hear them. Say, "That must hurt a lot." or "They must feel very lonely."

Try to give their feelings a "name." In a television interview I heard one of the fellow "trench coat" club members saying that others at the school would throw bottles at him and call him names. Talk about those kinds of hateful actions. Urge kids to really think about how that would feel.

Secondly, it s not only OK, it is crucial that teens have adults other than parents who care about them. Like it or not, it is natural for teens to more easily confide in someone else's parents than in their own. For me, it was the caring adults in my life that got me through tough years in middle school and high school when my peers were really nasty (and where I lacked some important social skills).

Youth group leaders, a best friend's mom, the spouse of one of my dad's co-workers, a camp counselor, a 4-H leader, the list goes on. These people listened to me, believed in me and encouraged me. All kids need that — even the ones who wear black lipstick, or the ones who don't shower, even the ones with pierced eyebrows.

Because I've never been above a good challenge, I would challenge the "popular" kids to do something risky — reach out to those isolated kids. Once a week, say or do something nice to a fellow student who may not feel so welcome.

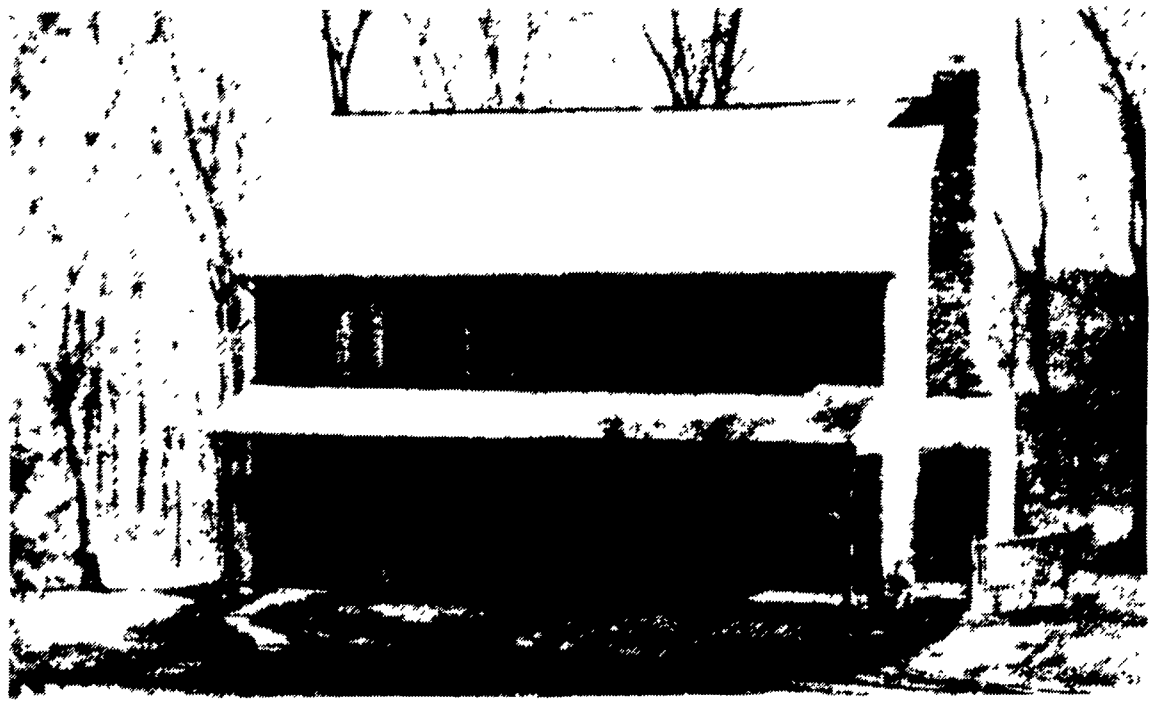
Adults can also set up opportunities when the isolated kids can gain some power and importance. Ask them to help younger kids with homework, set them up to be role models and teen assistants. Give them opportunities to make a difference. If your child is struggling with peers at school, is there another place where he or she could make friends? A community theater group? An extracurricular club? A church group? Sometimes all kids need is a fresh start with a new group of kids and they can become someone different, someone who feels OK.

No matter what's happening in kids' lives, give them more hugs and "atta-boys" than you think they could possibly need. Say "I love you." Ask what they are doing/talking about in specific classes. Show a sincere interest in their interests. Find outside opportunities to explore those interests together. Invite your kids' friends to your house. Hang out with them; get to know them. Head up the carpool and listen intently to the conversations.

Finally, don't just care about your children. Care about all children. Take the risk to say "Hi," "Hey" or "How's it going?" to a teen on the street. Talk to the kid at the park/playground that's by himself. Volunteer to tutor at the school or hang out at the bus stop. Respect and talk with the teens who are working at the fast food counters and supermarket cash registers.

It's a big world and a big problem. None of us is going to solve it alone. But I'm inspired by a story of a man who walks along a beach each dawn throwing stranded starfish back into the ocean. When someone comments on the futility of such an act solving the big problem saying, "How can your effort make any difference?"

The wise old man responds, "It makes a difference to this one."



With lots of hard work and care, Leon Lamar and Stacey Stauffer built this house from materials dismantled from old barns. Kitchen cabinets, hutch, entertainment center, and flooring are created from salvaged wood. Stone from the barn's foundation are used in the front of the house and for the large fireplace. An old hand pump was been incorporated into the vanity. See this unique home and eight others during the Tour of Homes on May 16.

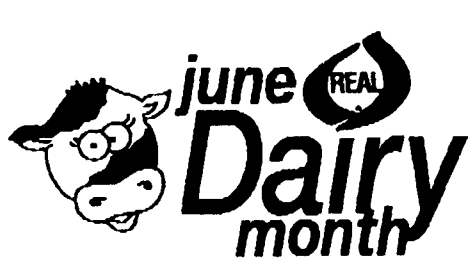
Students from Warwick School District found out what life was like on an average day on an Amish farm. High school students, from left, Isaac Hess, 14; Ean Welden, 15; and Dennis Daspol, 14; helped teach 180 fourth-graders about farm duties with no tractors. The 180 students were divided into three groups and rotated to different stations. Each group spend 15 minutes at the livestock station, farm equipment station, and the field and crop station. Mike Brubaker, right, of Brubaker Agronomic Consulting Service, Inc., said that he selected an Amish farm because the Amish believe in helping educate people about agriculture. The children were most amazed to hear about the impact littering can have on animals. They also learned that Amish pay taxes just like everyone else.



Teachers Receive Egg-Breaking News

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

CENTERVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "To made eggs a safe product for the market, we jump through lots of hoops," said Bill Murray of Sauder's Eggs.

At the annual dinner the Lancaster County Poultry Association holds for home economic teachers from Lancaster, York, and Berks counties, Murray described the "hoops" the poultry industry jumps through to erase the threat of Salmonella enteritidis (SE), listeria, and other foodborne illnesses.

According to Murray SE and listeria germs have always been around. But more incidents are coming to public attention because many bacteria germs that are now eliminated used to deteriorate egg products faster and were thrown away before SE and listeria germs could multiply. Unlike most bacteria germs, SE and listeria cannot be detected by the human eye.

Murray explained the Pennsylvania Egg Quality Assurance Program (PEQAP), which tracts the product from farm to market to ensure the highest standards. The state program is now being modeled by other states and by other industries.

The poultry industry is constantly working to release new food products. Shelf stable products that do not require refrigeration is a growing market for the food industry. A sour pickled egg in a strong salt and vinegar solution has a shelf life from six to eight months.

Another process that is being perfected is pasteurizing eggs without cooking. This method requires using high pressure heat exchanges.

The industry is also experimenting with egg packaging. Shrink wrapped egg cartons are popular with both the industry and the consumer. According to Murray, the heat-sealed bags are tamper evident and reduce egg breakage at the supermarket level.

Murray explained the steps taken for egg safety with the aid of a video showing how eggs are sanitized, packaged, and new products developed.

Jay Irwin, extension director emeritus, started the annual dinner for home economists many years ago. Irwin, who attended the dinner, said that he believes teachers are the best source to convey facts and truth about the egg industry.

Literature and videos on egg and poultry safety, recipes, and other related subjects are available from the Poultry Association for classroom use.

The annual dinner is considered a popular event among home economists. In addition to poultry education combined with a dinner, the event is also one of the few times professionals have the opportunity to trade ideas and concerns with other school districts.

Dr. John Schwartz, center, director of Lancaster County, and Carl Rohrer, right, hand out aprons and coffee mugs to attendees at the annual dinner.

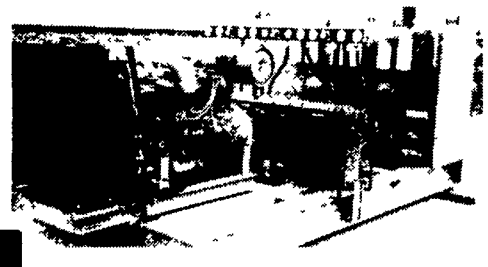
NEW, IMPROVED DIESEL SKID
- NO LINE SHAFT -

- No Line Shaft or Line Shaft Bearings
- Fewer Belts and Pulleys
- Less HP loss through Belt Drives
- Belts are easier to change



- Pump drives are set up to keep all side load off the Pump. This greatly increases Pump life and reduces shaft seal and shaft bearing problems.
- We can get more Pumps on a smaller skid to accommodate smaller Diesel rooms.
- Up to 21 Pumps on a 6'x14' skid

- You can easily add Pumps to this system when expanding. Just add another section to the Pump you already have. No need for any additional Belts, Pulleys, or Mountings.

Richard Hoppes

Former PYFA President

The PA Young Farmers Association is deeply saddened by the sudden death of a long-time member, Richard W. Hoppes, who passed away on March 23, 1999. Richard, a member of the Kutztown Chapter – both state and national life member, resided in Hamburg with his wife Grace.

Richard was a tireless worker on behalf of the PYFA. His commitment was reflected in the many years of work devoted to the organization. We will miss his presence and ever present smile.

Highlights — Winter Convention Delegate Meeting

The 39th Pennsylvania Young Farmers Annual Delegate meeting was held on February 3, 1999 in New Centerville, PA. National President Duane Nelson was in attendance for our winter conference and delegate meeting. The state officers are listed on page 1 of this newsletter.

We have completed the process of acquiring our Federal 501C exemption status and continue to work on acquiring our State sales tax exemption status. The State FFA foundation has extended an offer to the PYFA to sell their FFA 'collector' model tractors. The FFA will donate $10.00 of each sale to our '99 National Institute.

Future PYFA Convention sites will be discussed at the Summer 1999 Conference. The Kutztown Chapter will be our host for the 2000 Winter Convention.

National President Duane Nelson discussed the National educational (NYFEA) opportunities available and how the program works.

The State Association thanks Country Folks and Lancaster Farming for the dissemination of PYFA news and Mike Brubaker for producing the 1999 PYFA newsletters.

The National DeKalb grant request was submitted last spring and we were awarded $1000 for the purchase of a computer and establishment of a web page. Review our web page and make recommendations: www.payoungfarmers.org. The '99 Institute information and many other valuable links are available through the web page, including local chapters links. This is an incredible opportunity for the world to know the benefits of our organization and can be used as an effective agriculture education tool.

Penns Valley Young Farmer Chapter News

The Penns Valley Young Farmer Chapter held its annual spring banquet meeting on April 12 at the Spring Mills Fire Hall, Spring Mills.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Fire Company served a ham and turkey dinner. Forty-eight members and their families attended.

State Young Farmer President Dan Wilkinson and his wife attended and reported on upcoming state events and the National Convention Dec. 8-11 in Hershey. Dan encouraged all members to take advantage of attending the National Convention since it is so close to home. He said it is an opportunity to meet and make lifelong friends with Young Farmers from across the nation.

Penns Valley has agreed to provide the centerpieces for the banquet on Friday evening, Dec. 10, at the National Convention. Carol Corman showed samples of items to be used, and the theme will be "Penn State" since they are right in our backyard.

John Howell, adviser and vo-ag teacher, reported on the Young Farmer Corn Growing Contest and some of the exciting times he and his FFA members had doing the corn yield checks. He then presented trophies to Ja-Lene Farm, Harry Wasson and Dick Trinca as winners with the highest production per acre.

Plans were made for the summer picnic to be held the last Sunday in June and also Young Farmer activities to be held at the 125th Grange Fair in August. The group voted to provide a memorial to the children of Gary Kerstetter, a member of our chapter who recently passed away as the result of a farm accident that happened five years ago.

Adviser John Ishler reported on the past winter's meetings that varied from electricity deregulation to use of the Internet. He said that the pesticide recertification meeting was the best attended with close to 100 persons.

The ladies committee chaired by Judy Trinca had the tables beautifully decorated. President Dick Trinca presided at the meeting.

Door prizes provided by local businesses and members concluded an enjoyable evening.

Gettysburg Area Young Farmers

1999 Ag Outlook

March proved to be a very busy month for the Gettysburg Young Farmers! This is not surprising as we all try to fit in necessary happenings before spring sets in. GYF and PSU Extension Specialist, Larry Yager, hosted this year's Adams County Ag Outlook meeting.Panelists who discussed with great detail their 1998 year, trends, and predictions for 1999 include Dave Benner – Fruit Industry, Mark Widerman – Poultry, Carl Keller – Sr. Crops, Ray Grimes – Livestock, and John Hess – Dairy.

Preventative Farm Mechanics

Thank you, Wilkinson's, for opening your farm to our chapter members and guests on March 24 for the monthly program. The coordinator was Ed Wilkinson who commissioned Clugston Ag and Turf to provide the program. The turnout was spectacular and hopefully those new attendants will benefit from more programs like this one.

PYFA President Dan Wilkerson presented the Gettysburg Chapter with the state plaque for 1999 largest convention attendance, and also recognized Stanley Wolf for receiving State Honorary Farmer and Tom Oyler, Jr. for Outstanding Adviser of the Year.

Land

Stanley Wolf officially donated five acres to Gettysburg Young Farmers to use as needed for the purposes of test plots, seed trials, and fund production. As the '99 Institute approaches near and as the activity in our chapter increases, the members decided it was necessary to have funds available if needed. The membership thanked Stanley for his very generous donation and is working on distributing duties of planting, spraying and securing seed and fertilizer.

Community Service

Carol introduced a NYFEA community service program titled, "Adopt-A-Class." This service project is designed to provide farmers and agri-businesses the opportunity to work closely with a class at a local school. It provides insight into the origin of the food students consume and the role of the farmer in producing the food. Chapter members agreed to accept invitations from Carol to visit her classrooms as our youth begin to understand agriculture and the importance of providing food for the world.

Carl Keller, Jr. should also be recognized as he takes his knowledge to a Brownie troop in March.

Local Ag Agencies Reach Students

The newly formed Adams County Land Conservancy Education Committee has been working hard to educate students on the controversial but timely topic of wise land use and farmland preservation. This lesson currently consists of diverse teaching methods to discuss Pennsylvania land loss statistics, economic aesthetic, industry facts about agriculture's impact on Pennsylvania, a historical perspective of Gettysburg development, and role-playing to present well-balanced views of property owners, governing agencies, and local businesses. Their debut recently at Gettysburg Middle School

The 1999 PYFA Summer Meeting and Educational Tours will be held on Saturday, July 10, 1999. This year's Summer Tours will give Pennsylvania Young Farmer Members a glimpse of one of our state's largest agricultural enterprises, the horseracing industry. In 1998 Pennsylvania's Horseracing Industry generated 1.1 billion dollars in total revenue and employed over 44,000 people. The state has over 225,000 total horses, which includes nearly 50,000 racehorses.

The evening dinner meeting will be held at the Penn National VIP Turf Club Dining Room. Attendees will have a birds eye view of the racetrack.

We hope you will consider joining the PYFA Executive Board for an unforgettable day of educational tours and fine dining.

BEHIND THE SCENES TOUR OF PENN NATIONAL

If you arrive early, be sure to sign up for the Behind the Scenes Tour of the Penn National Racetrack. The 20-30 minute tour will include racetrack, Winner's Circle, and the horse barns. Vans will depart every one-half hour from the hotel lobby. Please note that groups will be limited to 12 to 15 individuals. The buffet breakfast serving time is extended to accommodate members on the tour. As a special feature, we will also be offering tours to the Capital Area Therapeutic Riding Program located within one mile of the Holiday Inn.

MILTON HERSHEY SCHOOL

Milton Hershey School began as a dream and vision shared by chocolate and confectioneries magnate Milton S. Hershey and his wife Catherine. In the early 1900's Milton Hershey's chocolate company had become a huge success. He established a planned community (Hershey, Pennsylvania) that included tree-lined streets, water and sewage system, electricity, telephones, and a trolley system, as well as libraries, a theater and recreational facilities, and an amusement park. He and his wife Catherine were quite involved in all these ventures.

Unable to have children of their own, they decided to establish a home and a school for orphaned boys in 1909. In 1918, three years after Mrs. Hershey died, Milton gave his entire personal fortune to the school. Mr. Hershey lived to see the school expand its campus and its enrollment.

Also included in the tour will be Founders Hall and a bus tour of the campus.

CASSEL'S BROOKSIDE STABLES

Cassel's Brookside Stables has been in the family for five generations. The farm began as a Chester White Purebred sow operation. The pig operation received most of its feed from Mr. Hershey's hotel, factory and restaurants. By World War II, the farm switched to 100 Registered Guernsey Cows. They also had Registered Shetland Ponies (they live on Shetland Drive), Welsh Ponies, and Arabians.

In 1972 with the opening of Penn National the farm was converted into a Thoroughbred racehorse boarding and training facility. The Cassels currently have approximately 60 horses boarded on the farm. They have a ¼ mile dirt track, treadmill, swimming facilities and are in the process of making a one-mile turf course.

OVERNIGHT ACCOMMODATIONS

The Holiday Inn has discounted convention rate rooms ($145.00). Be sure to make your reservations prior to Thursday, June 24, 1999 — Holiday Inn 717-469-0661. If you desire other accommodations at the Exit 28, I-81 location, other hotels are listed for your convenience:

PENN NATIONAL DINNER MEETING

The day's activities will conclude with the Dinner Meeting to be held at the luxurious VIP Turf Club Dining Room on the top floor of the Penn National Racetrack facility. The Winners Buffet featuring Peppercorn Crusted Pork Loin, Grilled Filet Mignon, and Shrimp Scampi will be served from 6:30 PM to 8:30 PM.

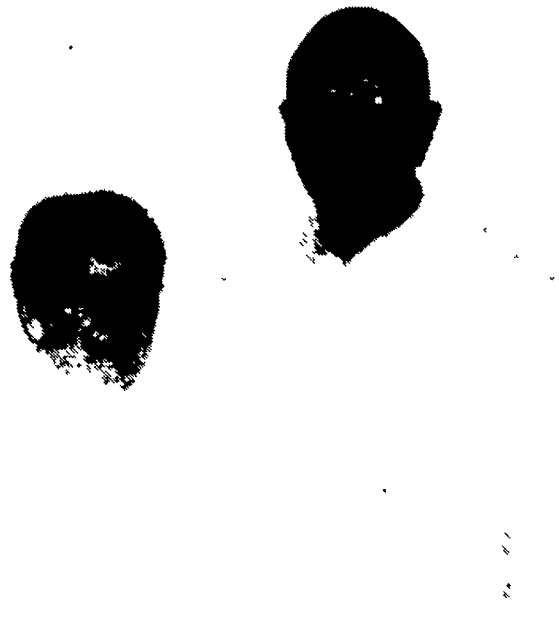
Tim Brown Receives SARE Grant

Tim Brown, president of the Gettysburg Young Farmers, in cooperation with the Adams County Agriculture and Extension Services was recently awarded on SARE Grant for research of growing of soybeans for forage purposes. Extension Agent Larry Swartz assisted Brown in application completion. Gettysburg Young Farmers are listed as collaborators and will assist in public demonstration and publications. The Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Producer Grant Program from USDA, initially had $250,000 available for grants up to $5,000 for individuals ($15,000 for groups of three or more producers) interested in researching, demonstrating or educating others about profitable, environmentally sound, socially responsible agriculture systems. With the low prices for livestock and grains, farmers and ranchers need to look for different ways to make their operations more sustainable Producers know best how to make their operations more sustainable and many producers will have to make changes this year to remain competitive.

Kutztown Young Farmer Chapter News

Bill and Sandy Zollers from Mertztown are Kutztown Area Young Farmer Over 30 Years award winners for 1999. They received their award at the Young Farmer/FFA banquet held in March this year. They will go on to compete in regional and state YF competitions.



Peg and Walt Wiser from Topton are volunteers for the American Red Cross. They spoke to the Kutztown Young Farmers and explained the work they do at the disasters they have been called to serve at. They are two very dedicated volunteers!

included a lesson coordinated by Carol Richwine and activated by members Tara Baugher, director of Adams County Land Conservancy, Ellen Dayhoff, director of Adams County Agriculture Preservation, Land Preservation Board, and Mike Helms, Penn State extension agent. It is the committee's hope to present this lesson, once perfected then packaged, to Adams County Schools to enhance their agriculture and environmental education.

Community Service Young Farmers Initiated Tax Reform Meetings

After the chapter's brief meeting on Feb. 9, many members expressed support for a public meeting on tax reform. The Gettysburg Area Young Farmers hosted the district's first public forum to answer questions on the Act 50 Homestead Tax Exclusion Program at the Gettysburg Middle School on Feb. 24. School district business manager Brad Hunt and assistant business manager Tom Fortnum educated about 35 residents of the Gettysburg School District.

Adopt-A-Class In Action

Adopt-A-Class was set in motion in February as Young Farmer members spoke to the eighth grade Ag Sciences classes to make their dairy unit complete. Students learned why milk is often considered as nature's most perfect food, and that milk's composition is the reason for adding salt to ice cream churning, and why there is a picture of a cow on the bottle of Elmer's Glue. In addition, Tim Brown, Bob Clowney and Steve Mattias from Agway, answered students' questions. Students also got their hands on feed stuffs such as cotton seed, corn silage, haylage, and cracked corn and discussed the relation of good nutrition to herd health, economics, and mild composition.

Agricultural Education Tour

The Gettysburg Young Farmers hosted its annual education tour March 9. The full bus of members and FFA members left without hindrance by weather and toured Rigidply Rafters and Wenger's Implements of Meyerstown and Kopp's Dairy Farm.

York Preserves Farmland

YORK (York Co) — More than 5,500 acres of farm and natural lands were submitted to the York County Agricultural Land Preservation Board as of the Jan. 15 deadine for the 1999 preservation round.

During the April 1999 monthly preserve board meeting, board members finalized the review of 31 applications. A decision was approved to appraise approximately 2,000 acres of agricultural and natural lands. Applicants will receive their farm worksheets in May explaining their scores and ranking. High scoring farms will be appraised and offers negotiated for landowners interested in farmland preservation.

The York County Agricultural Land Preservation Board has preserved 61 farms totaling 15,246 acres. York's preservation program ranks second in the state of 47 county programs and ninth in the nation of 150 programs.

Information about the agricultural land preservation program can be obtained by calling the program office at (717) 840-7400 or 7448 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays.

YOU KNOW THE DRILL,

CONQUER YOUR BIG DISC CHALLENGES

The Weight You Need For Serious Discing

The medium weight Krause 4900 series tandem disc harrows have so much muscle, they compare to the "heavy" series discs from other manufacturers. Krause's 4900 series discs provide the weight you need to handle your biggest disc challenges - averaging 440 pounds per foot of cut. And this is one machine that works as hard as you do, slicing through tough crop residue with ease. Taking a Krause 4900 series disc on the road is made easier because over-center wing folding provides maximum stability and a 13'2" transport width. Krause 4900 series discs, the perfect combination of weight, and performance.

The Krause 4900 Series Discs

- 440 pounds per foot of cut
- Super-strength frame & hitch
- Models available from 21' - 25'
- 13'2" transport width
- 8" or 9 1/8" blade spacing
- Can be configured for chemical incorporation

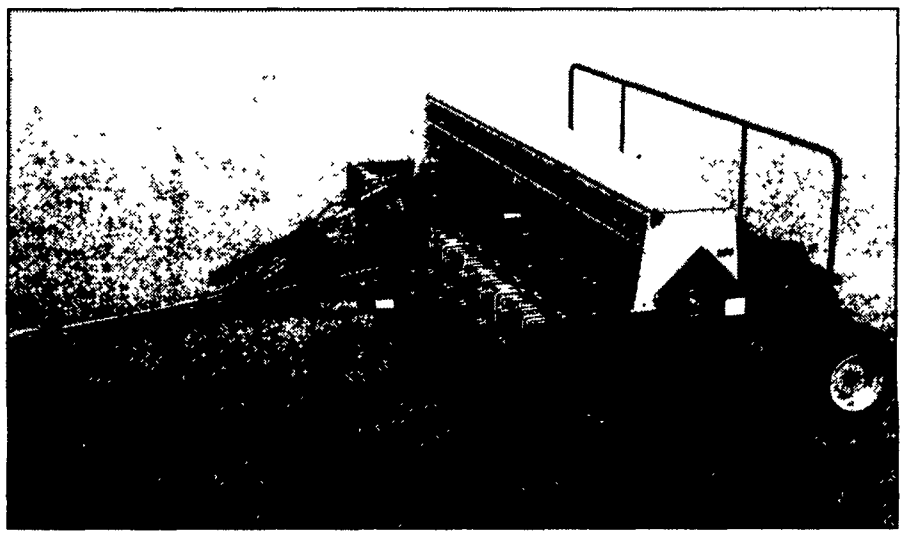
GET A NO TIL DRILL WITH AN ANYTIME, ANYWHERE ATTITUDE



Some No Til drills work best when it's wet and soft; some work best when it's dry and hard. Krause 5200 Series No Til drills, however, work anytime, anywhere. With Krause 5200 Series No Til drills, you can seed at the proper depth when the ground is soft and they will also penetrate in the tough, heat-baked soil of mid-summer. And Krause's use of precision seed cups and smooth seed tubes place the seed evenly in the row for ideal growth and yield.

Compare with the Competition

- 13' and 15' Seeding Widths
- 2 bushel per foot hopper capacity
- Self-adjusting fluted seed cups
- Weight transfer hitch
- Staggered double-disc openers
- Excellent side hill stability
- Narrow transport - No wider than it seeds
- Exceptional road clearance
- Outstanding Price

Yes, the Quadrant 1200 delivers that density commercial operators want Yes, its bales inhibit spoilage by keeping the air out Yes, they preserve quality because they minimize nutrient loss

The 1200 also offers the high production capacities you demand Its 4 ft x 2-1/4 ft x up to 8 ft long bales effectively increase storage space and dramatically increase transport capacities–all at a high productivity rate And you know what this means to your bottom line

CLAAS's shaft-driven knotters have earned a worldwide reputation for reliability and low maintenance Other notable features are its 3-stage pre-chamber, 78" wide pickup, powerful transmission, heavy-duty worm gear, 1000rpm pto, hydraulic density control, capacity for up to 24 balls of sisal or plastic twine, and of course 6 dependable CLAAS shaft-driven knotters.

We Breed Champions, Too!

Well, we really don't "breed" them, but we feel each mixer that we produce is a champion in every way We take great care in designing each machine before it is built We also track each machine after it leaves our facility, making sure it is delivered to you on time, and ready to go to work the minute it is off the truck. We then follow the life of the Mixer, making sure that the customer is happy with the machine, long after the sale. If you want a company that takes as much pride in their product as we know you do in yours, give us a call.

TAKE IT EASY ON YOUR HAY.

With the new Model 5312 Mower Conditioner from New Idea, haying is easy on you - and on your hay. That's because our new center-pivot design lets you cut from either side, instead of going around in circles. The 5312 also incorporates our proven cutter-bar, with reversible knives, fully enclosed disc drive units and segmented hex driveshafts, for reduced maintenance and increased reliability. Plus, Ti-Cor™ conditioning rolls speed dry-down without damaging leaves. We also made it easy to learn more about the 5312. Just visit your AGCO New Idea dealer today.

NEW! New Holland TND/TNS Tractors 42 to 62 PTO hp

Customer driven design

TND/TND tractors have the features customers say they need These tractors outperform and outmaneuver all others in the three-cylinder class. Plus they're loaded with comfort and convenience usually found on much bigger tractors.

Exclusive SuperSteer™ FWD axle makes TNS tractors the most maneuverable all purpose tractors available.

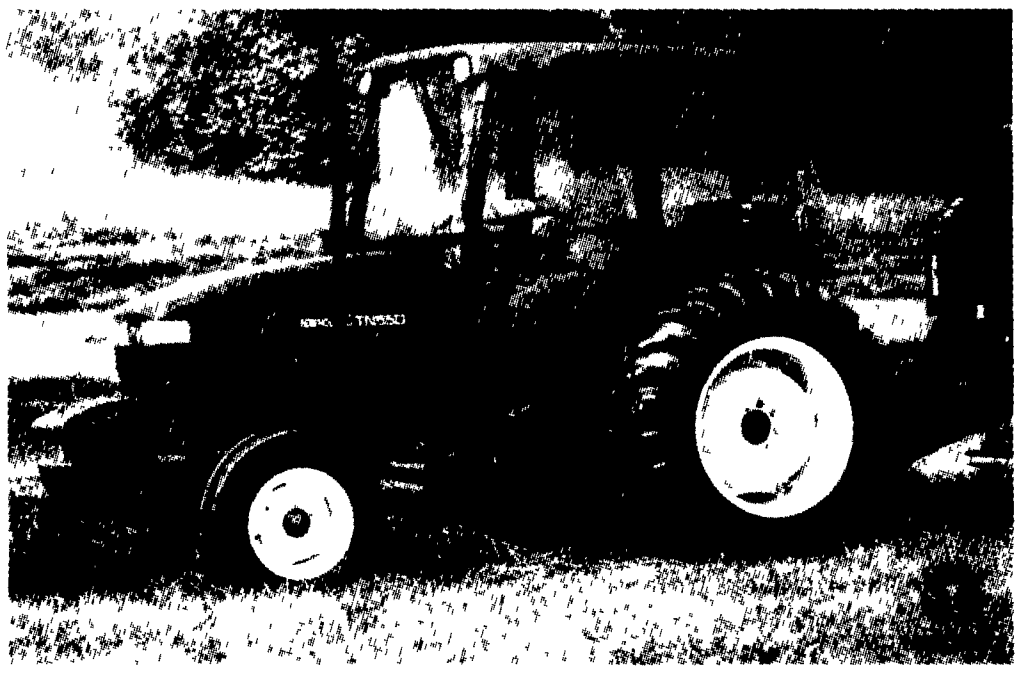
8x8 or 16x16 Synhro Command™ transmissions feature synchronized gears and a synchronized, left hand mechanical shuttle. The 16x16 includes four speeds 1 mph or less.

8x8 or 16x16 Synchro Command transmissions with power shuttle offer clutchless, forward/reverse shuttling for superior operator convenience.

Exclusive Traction Management System (TNS tractors only) automatically engages FWD when and only when you need it.

Four wheel differential lock is electro-hydraulically engaged on TNS tractors for maximum power to ground performance.

Comfortable cab is suspended and pressurized, shielding the operator from vibration, noise and dirt. Heater and A/C, two doors, tilt/telescoping steering, front and rear washers and wipers, and a best-in-class lighting package are standard. Excellent visibility and an overall height as low as 85.1" lets you go places competitive cab tractors can't.



Boomer™ has tightest turnaround

Cut the wheel on a Boomer compact tractor and BOOM... it turns on a dime, up to 50% less than other compacts.

- With Supersteer™ enjoy greater maneuverability
- Sensitrack™ clutch senses turns and is easy on turf
- Innovative styling means high visibility and easy of operation
- Comfort-Plus™ deck applies ergonomic design for greater operator comfort

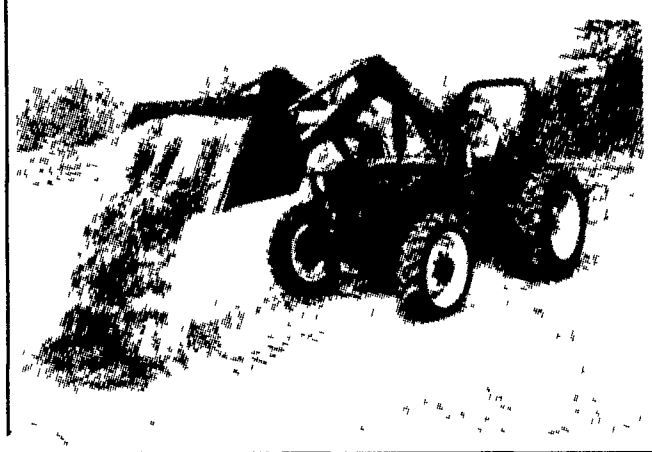
Shuttle back and forth with ease

The left-hand, column-mounted shuttle control on New Holland 40 to 62 PTO hp tractors with 8x8 and 16x8 transmissions provides convenient shifting of the best, fully-synchronized shuttle in this horsepower class. Shuttling is controlled with the left hand, leaving your right hand free to operate the loader.

NEW HOLLAND



Excellent in the field - and on the farm

New Holland 70- to 90-PTO-hp tractors feature a 16x16 Pulse Command™ transmission with push-button power shifting within each of four speed groups. Speeds are evenly spaced 18% apart, with nine speeds in the usual two- to seven-mph working range. Plenty of gear overlap makes range shifting unnecessary most of the time.

The shuttle lets you pull out from a dead stop or change direction without clutching. An optional, electro-hydraulically engaged creeper is also available.

Hereford Youth Prepare For All-American Junior Hereford Expo

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Members of the National Junior Polled Hereford Council (NJPHC) and American Junior Hereford Association (AJHA) plan for the two national junior events July 12-17 and 21-25. It is estimated that close to 1,000 head will compete at the shows in E. Lansing, Mich., and Chadron, Neb.

NJPHC members will travel to Spartan country for the 26th Junior National Polled Hereford Show and Forum, July 12-17. "Spartan Time in '99" will be at Michigan State University (MSU) E. Lansing, in the newly constructed MSU Pavilion for Agriculture and Livestock Education. Cattle and exhibitors may begin arriving at 8 a.m. on Monday, July 12 and must be stalled by 3 p.m. on July 13. Harlan Ritchie, E. Lansing, will evaluate the bred-and-owned heifer and steer shows on July 15. Scott Schaake, Manhattan, Kan., will judge the owned heifers on July 17, while Dan Moser, Manhattan, Kan., and Joel Cowley, Leslie, Mich., will team up to judge the showmanship competition on July 16. Away from the showring, exhibitors will have the opportunity to compete in various contests throughout the week, including team marketing, team fitting, illustrated speech, beef bowl and the judging contest. Hereford families will have the unique opportunity to tour the university farms, veterinary clinic, football stadium, basketball arena and meat lab, plus enjoy other attractions in the mid-Michigan area.

Chadron, Neb., will hold the "Key to the 21st Century" as the AJHA members participate in the All-American Junior Hereford Expo, July 21-25. The show will be at the Dawes Country Fairgrounds. Cattle may begin arriving at 8 a.m. on July 21 and check-in will be from 9 a.m.-noon on July 22. Judges for the event include Chris Skaggs, College Station, Texas, evaluating the bred-and-owned show along with the steer show, and David Allan, Stonewall, Texas, evaluating the owned heifers. Arlen Sawyer, Bassett, Neb.; Josh Shriner, Gordon, Neb.; and Bobby Singleton, Murfreesboro, Tenn., will judge the showmanship competition. The bred-and-owned heifer and bull show along with the steer show are scheduled for July 23, followed by showmanship on July 24 and the cow/calf and heifer show on July 25. Juniors will also compete in the national showmanship contest, judging contest, quiz bowl, team marketing contest and a Nebraska futurity heifer show. The Nebraska Junior Hereford Association has the agenda packed with tours and attractions, including a visit to the scenic Black Hills of South Dakota and historical Ft. Robinson, home of the buffalo soldiers and the site where Chief Crazy Horse was killed.

To take part in the events and be eligible to show, all exhibitors must be members of the AJHA or NJPHC. Horned and polled steers may be exhibited at both national shows. For entry or show information, contact the American Hereford Association (AHA) youth department at P.O. Box 014059, Kansas City, MO 64101 or call (816) 842-3757. Entries are due at AHA by June 1.

Members Approve New Organization

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Members of the 83-year-old organization, Livestock Conservation Institute (LCI), unanimously approved a name change and restructure for the organization during LCI's annual meeting here recently.

The new organization, National Institute for Animal Agriculture, Inc., will roll out Jan. 1, 2000.

"One of the greatest challenges of LCI has been communicating, effectively, who we are and what we do," said Richard Breidmeyer, chairman of the Vision 2000! task force. "Our name has been said to be misleading, confusing, and has caused some to think we are activists against, not advocates for, animal agriculture."

Over the organization's 83-year-history, the name Livestock Conservation Institute is the third name of the organization. The first name, Livestock Sanitary Committee, dates back to 1916 and later became the National Livestock Loss and Prevention Board. In 1950, the organization voted to change its name to Livestock Conservation, Inc., which was revised to the Livestock Conservation Institute in 1980.

"As we look back five decades, to the origins of our current name, we can reflect on the many advances this industry has made," Breitmeyer said. "Animal agriculture has undergone significant change since the last major name change in 1950. The task force is putting forth a vision that will ensure that this organization's most effective times are still ahead."

Task force members presented five recommendations to the board of directors in September 1998, and received endorsement to proceed forward with obtaining the membership's approval. The five recommendations were to broaden the membership of the organization to encompass the full spectrum of animal agriculture, develop a business plan to enhance services and revenues, review committee structure to address prominent issues facing animal agriculture, review current organization structure including articles and bylaws; and change the identity/name of the organization.

These recommendations were developed after multiple task force meetings and a comprehensive survey distributed to 1,700 individuals involved in animal agriculture. The survey results helped to document the preliminary recommendations of the task force and aided in the formulation of the five final recommendations.

Survey respondents agree with the name change as noted by a 76 percent response that the name should be changed. After narrowing the choice of names down, another survey was sent to the membership recommending three names. Members had the opportunity to pick which name would be the organization's new name. Results from the last survey overwhelmingly revealed the National Institute for Animal Agriculture as the preferred name.

Throughout the year, the Vision 2000! task force will continue to develop the organization's structure. This will include the committee structure, bylaws, and constitution as well as the number of directors on the board.

"Our completion date is December 31, 1999," said Thomas Wenstrand, chairman of the LCI Board. "This will start the new millennium out with a new name and a new corporate structure that will be more efficient and responsive."

The Vision 2000! task force was commissioned in 1996 by the LCI Board of Directors to serve as a long-range planning team charged with landscaping an organization for the future that will more effectively serve the needs of animal agriculture.

Economist: European Attitudes Affect Biotech Seed Issue

COLUMBUS, Ohio — European skepticism about the safety of foods processed from genetically engineered grains leaves a lot of question marks for the American farmers who have been planting biotech seeds.

In 1998, almost one-third of U.S. soybean acres and about one-fourth of U.S. corn acres were planted in genetically engineered seed. Those percentages represented increases from the single digits of the previous year.

However, Europeans are leery of new kinds of food products, especially after their bout with "mad cow" disease two years ago, said Ohio State University agricultural economist Tom Sporleder. There's an outcry about food safety in Europe, even though "mad cow" disease didn't involve genetically engineered products.

"Mad cow" disease scared the Europeans, Sporleder noted. "I think they're saying to the scientific community, 'Prove beyond a doubt biotech is safe.'

"In the long-run, I really believe the world will accept food products made from genetically altered grains," Sporleder said.

Some American farmers — and food processors — may be in a bind if the European Union (EU) succeeds in pressing its case at a major round of talks of the World Trade Organization in November, Sporleder said.

The EU wants processed foods to be labeled if they are made from genetically engineered crops, Sporleder said. In addition, the EU is concerned about "drift" from fields planted with genetically modified crops to fields of conventional crops. The current U.S. position is that genetically altered food need not be labeled.

The labeling issue is significant because processed foods are a major segment of trade in the globalized economy, Sporleder said. American processors could comply, but not without considerable expense that would raise food costs

"It would affect farmers ultimately," Sporleder said. "Our food system is totally interdependent, and you would have a ripple effect back to that field of corn."

European attitudes have already resulted in a flurry of laws by individual nations concerning the identity of foods, Sporleder said. In some European countries, retailers and restaurants must provide information to consumers about whether foods come from genetically modified sources, he said.

Already, some American grain handlers are abiding by European concerns. Several U.S. firms recently announced they will not buy grains produced from genetically engineered seeds that are banned by the EU.

Sporleder doesn't think Europe's position is motivated by protectionist concerns against U.S. biotech industries, such as Monsanto, which produces the genetically engineered Roundup Ready corn and soy-

Ohio Conference To Explore 'Better Ways to Develop Ohio'

COLUMBUS, Ohio — It's inevitable: Ohio's population will continue to grow. However, Ohio communities have a lot of ways to manage that growth.

An upcoming statewide conference, "Better Ways to Develop Ohio," June 24-25, at the Columbus Athenaeum, will address some of those issues, specifically how Ohio should grow, where it should grow, and who pays for that growth.

"We've defined land use in as broad of terms as possible," said Tim Lawrence, Ohio State University Extension community development and land use agent. "Many people equate land use with farmland preservation. The conference is for more than farmland preservation.

"Our umbrella goal is to keep land use issues on the front burner," Lawrence said. "We hope this conference will encourage more people to become involved in land use discussions and planning in their own communities."

A variety of issues are on the agenda, including suburban development, urban revitalization, and brownfield issues, as well as farmland preservation. In addition to those topics, other issues facing communities will be addressed in breakout sessions. Topics include: transportation systems, watershed planning, on-site waste treatment options, greenways, cost of community services, protecting the environment, smart growth, conservation development and legislation.

Lawrence and the planning committee made concerted efforts to provide a balanced program. For example, Harrison Smith, a central Ohio land use attorney; Roberta Brandes Gratz, author of "Cities Back From the Edge:" and David Rusk, author of "Inside Game/Outside Game: Urban Policies for the 21st Century" and a consultant on urban and suburban policy are all slated for Thursday morning's opening session.

The breakout sessions are equally balanced. The session on mass transportation features a panel discussion between Ron Barnes of COTA and the Mass Transit-Light Rail, 2C Rail project representative Tom O'Leary of the Ohio Rail Development Commission, Bill Hutchinson of the Ohio Association of Rail Passengers, and Marc Conte of the Ohio Sierra Club.

"We hope the balanced approach will entice a variety of participants," Lawrence said. The conference was designed to attract local, regional, and state government officials, county and state public agency representatives, planners, home builders, architects and designers, bankers and representatives from financial institutions; environmentalism, urban groups, farmers, rural residents, realtors, engineers, and the general public.

Continuing education units will be available to appraisers, sanitarians, planners, realtors, attorneys, architects, engineers and finance officers, pending approval from the authorizing agency.

Conference registration is $85 for both days if you register before June 18 and $100 if you register after that date. Breaks and lunch are included in the registration cost. For more information, contact Molly Bean at (610) 292-6962. Or, you can obtain conference information over the Internet (http://www.ag.ohio-state.edu/~landuse/conference/).

Attitudes Affect Biotech

beans. Many European companies already are involved in genetically engineered products, such as seeds and medicines, he said.

Europeans may start to change their attitudes if they begin to see benefits from genetically engineered products, such as edible vaccines, Sporleder said. However, it may take many years for European skepticism to wear off, he said.

"U.S. consumers, and maybe North American consumers in general, tend to accept biotechnology more readily and sort of have more faith in it than Europeans," he said. "The U.S. consumer is pretty much accustomed to a considerable parade of new technologies, and I think this is one of them."

A possible compromise between the United States' and the EU's trade positions is a concept called "permissive labeling," Sporleder said. This arrangement would require labels that state the food "may" have been made with genetically engineered crops.

Ultimately, a dual commodity market could emerge for genetically engineered and non-altered crops, Sporleder said. The pricing structure could get complicated as more genetic traits are added to conventional hybrids, a practice known as "stacking," he said. For example, crops might be priced by the kinds and numbers of genetically engineered traits introduced to the seed.

"There's no end to what could happen, if each of these traits has some market value," Sporleder said. "In the long term, I don't think it is going to be a problem because the market will adjust to it."

In the meantime, American farmers should try to protect themselves by making sure they have a market for any genetically engineered seed they plant, Sporleder said. "They have to realize they may in fact have a limited market for these kinds of crops," he said.

As for a prediction on the outcome of the World Trade Organization talks, Sporleder said, "It's going to depend on how shrewd the negotiators are on both sides."

Set in the foothills of the Blue Mountains this beautiful farm is located between Bethlehem, PA and Stroudsburg - the gateway to the Poconos - and is just north of the Lehigh Valley Airport and 90 minutes to NYC. The house is a four bedroom Nineteenth Century Log House that has been completely restored a few years ago, with such features as exposed log walls, wide plank floors, a huge master bath with whirlpool tub and modern kitchen. The outbuildings consist of a 45x50 bank barn and a spring house. There is 30 acres of good, level crop land with a stream and 2 springs, which make it ideal to create watered pastured for horses. This farm is ideally located at the base of mountain range in Northern Dauphin County near Millersburg. The buildings are set several hundred yards off the main road, creating that perfect Currier & Ives setting everyone dreams about with the mountain as a back drop. The buildings feature a very well maintained brick center hall farm house with 4 large bedrooms and a large country kitchen. The out buildings consist of a 38x40 Bank Barn, 25x42 heated shop and 60x120 Morton pole building used for equipment storage. The majority of 100 tillable acres is gently rolling productive farm land with approximately 12 acres of pasture and 41 acres of woodland. PURINA DAIRY HERD PROFILE

ENTHUSIASTIC PURINA FARMER

Nestled in the rolling green hills north of Lebanon, Udder Valley Holstein Farm is owned by Ricki and Roberta Bashore and family. Milking 90 to 100 cows in a conventional tie-stall barn, the Bashores have perfected a feeding/cow comfort program that shows a current herd average of 24,476m 841f 774p. Haylage and corn silage provides the roughage in the TMR mix that is kept constantly in front of the cows to insure they have plenty to eat. Home grown roasted soybeans, high moisture corn and Purina's Proteus concentrate provides the basic high-energy protein supplement to balance the roughages to the needs of the cows.

For cows milking over 80 pounds per day, a top dress of Test Cow 24 is added as needed to balance the ration to the individual cows's production needs.

The cows have really responded to this Purina feeding program. Cows make individual records over 33,000m and many milk over 100 pounds per day to 150 pounds. Right now, five two-year-olds are milking over 100 lbs. per day.

For Ricki, the reason he feeds Purina is quite simple. The cows milk better than with other feeds he has tried.

"For me, it is quite simple," Ricki said. "About five years ago, I was with Purina, and had a 22,500 pound herd average. But I thought Purina's new feeds they were bringing on the market were too expensive. So I went to other feed suppliers in the neighborhood. Over the next several years, we fed several different brands of feed and watched our herd average fall until it reached a low of 19,500 pounds. Naturally, I wasn't very pleased and when Kim Horning representing Purina and Umbergers of Fontana came in the lane again, and told me they thought they could help me with my production problem, I decided to let them try again.

"The resulting increase in production was immediate. When we started to feed Purina again in November of 1997, our daily average production was 64.8 pounds. Within three weeks, we had a 16-pound per cow per day increase. And to me that says it all. Yes, I recommend Purina to other farmers. With my experience, it's no wonder I am an enthusiastic Purina farmer."
